Morris Pays A Visit

W. S. "Bill" Morris, Kansas City, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lt. Governor, was honored at a coffee Friday afternoon at the Bothwell Hotel - given by friends in Pettis County.

During the afternoon Morris announced the appointment of Thomas W. "Tom" Hurley, Queen City Electric Co., and Wallace G. "Wally" McCown, McCown Bros. Salvage Co., as co-chairman of his campaign in Pettis County.

The affair was attended by many leading Democrats of the area discussing the coming primary campaign.

During the two-hour coffee visitors were served cookies, doughnuts and coffee.

Morris, a native of Higginsville, told friends, "My most impressive memory of Sedalia dates back to 1933 when I was attending the Higginsville High School and had my first opportunity to get in a football game for the Blue Jays against Smith-Cotton. I believe the score was something like 99 to 0. (The records show it was 0 for Higginsville but the Tigers scored only 26 points). During those days I made many friends among Smith-Cotton students when we were opponents."

Governor of Missouri. The announcement of his chairmen was made at a coffee held at the Bothwell Hotel Friday afternoon. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Continuing, he discussed various phases of government and legislation regarding Missouri, and said, "I feel I am well qualified to serve as Missouri's Lt. Governor. Having lived in the rural area, I know outstate Missouri, and having resided in Kansas City I am just as familiar with urban Missouri.

"I might add, my interest locally is with Sedalia, Pettis County and Mid-Missouri in supporting the State Fair. I am a strong supporter of the fair and a firm believer that it is good for Missouri. I attended the fair for many years as a boy and loved every minute of it. I shall support any legislation which will not only continue its operation, but improve it. Like

Find Fresh Troops Outside Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy gunners hit the dock area on Saigon's riverfront with at least seven mortar rounds early Sunday, Vietnamese police sources said. The explosions set one warehouse afire and wounded a policeman.

Initial reports said the shells were 82mm mortars.

Fresh enemy troops were detected on the northern edge of Saigon Saturday night and South Vietnamese forces, backed by artillery, were dispatched to give battle.

South Vietnamese military sources said there was "some contact" and the thunder of exploding artillery shells could be heard in downtown Saigon. There was no indication whether the enemy moves meant that the Viet Cong were attempting to carry out their threats of a major attack on the capital over the weekend.

The action was in the Go Vap district about four miles from the center of the city and South Vietnamese sources said the enemy force had been identified as elements of the Dong Nai Regiment, a mixed Viet Cong-North Vietnamese unit.

Some sniper fire was reported Saturday near the Phu Tho race track on the southwest fringe of the city, a familiar battleground in the sporadic fighting around the capital since the Tet offensive in February.

B52 bombers hit again Saturday night a few miles north of Saigon in an effort to blast Viet Cong infiltration routes and to ease enemy pressure on the city and its three million residents. U.S. spokesmen said they had no details on the strikes.

Allied troops kept up their search for enemy rocket nests on the outskirts of Saigon. The center of Saigon was last hit by rockets on Tuesday, but the Viet Cong has threatened a massive shower of rockets will fall on the city.

Twenty enemy mortar rounds hit the southern edge of Saigon Saturday, wounding two policemen and six South Vietnamese civilians. About 60 Chinese-made 107mm rockets struck the Bien Hoa airbase 15 miles north of Saigon, but caused no damage or casualties, U.S. spokesmen said.

Some sharp fighting flared during the day in a string of hamlets about five miles northeast of downtown Saigon. South Vietnamese military officials raised the number of enemy reported killed there from 30 to 60 and said government casualties were light.

AP photographer Dang Van Phuoc, who was with the Vietnamese forces, said the enemy was strongly entrenched in bunkers built in abandoned homes. He said the advance of the government troops was halted by heavy fire from automatic weapons, B40 rockets and grenades.

Late in the afternoon the Vietnamese troops drew a cordon around the region and said they would launch a new assault Sunday.

While the center of attention was on the Saigon area, there were several sharp clashes reported in the northern part of the country.

Marines of the U.S. 26th Regimental Landing Team killed 21 North Vietnamese regulars in repulsing an enemy charge on their night positions southwest of Da Nang. Three Marines were wounded.

Near the South China Sea, other U.S. Marines pinned down a band of North Vietnamese and the cruiser Boston shelled the enemy position, killing 27 enemy soldiers.

Mansfield Endorses Bill For Strict Gun Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The growing congressional demand for strict new gun legislation picked up its most influential convert Saturday night with an endorsement by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of a bill requiring registration and possession of a permit for all firearms.

The Montanan, like many of his Western colleagues, has in the past opposed extension of federal laws to rifles and shotguns. But he said in a statement he will support a bill introduced Wednesday by Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., and nine other senators.

The legislation, providing for federal registration unless states enact their own registration laws, would go well beyond President Johnson's recommendation that the ban on mail-order sales of handguns, contained in the omnibus crime bill, be extended to "long guns."

That bill is expected to be reported Thursday by the House Judiciary Committee.

Johnson has until a day earlier to decide whether he will accept the crime bill, which includes controversial sections to authorize wiretapping and undo the effect of recent Supreme Court decisions limiting admissibility of confessions in criminal trials.

"It is my belief that a sound gun law is a sane and rational approach; one that can be of great help in bringing about a reduction in the murders caused by long and short guns alike," Mansfield said.

He added that the Tydings bill would protect legitimate gun owners "just as car owners and others are protected through registration from misappropriation or theft."

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., Senate Judiciary Committee chairman, has opposed inclusion of rifles and shotguns in gun legislation but plans to meet with his committee next week to see how to proceed on the new bills.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., the Commerce Committee chairman, is one of a half-dozen senators who have switched their position publicly to support the Johnson administration's bill.

McCarthy Urges Open Convention

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, in an uphill battle with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination, urged the party to open its convention in August so that rival candidates could appear before the delegates so they could make a final decision.

"I would be hopeful if we could give some thought to letting the candidates make a public appearance," the Minnesota senator told delegates to the Western States Democratic Conference here Saturday.

Mccarthy noted that it is the tradition for the respective candidates to remain backstage until the convention makes its choice.

"You know we go through campaigns and we have the candidates try to reach every delegation in the country and every voter for that matter," said McCarthy. "But all of a sudden when you get to the convention, somehow the candidates become....outcasts or held in some germ-free atmosphere."

"To let a delegate see a candidate in the open at a convention is considered like really intruding into the temple vestial virgins."

McCarthy, facing the possibility of a Humphrey bandwagon, expressed hope "we might reserve the question of a final majority decision" until the delegates had a chance to judge each of the candidates.

McCarthy said that he was considering making a European trip in July to talk to American representatives at theParis peace talks, and he said he was also interested in the monetary reform discussions.

But McCarthy emphasized that he had no plans as of yet.

Shafer Endorses Gov. Rockefeller

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer endorsed Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination Saturday, but a former booster of the New York governor said he has changed his attitude and talked favorably of Richard M. Nixon.

Word of the change in view came from Mayland's Gov. Spiro T. Agnew who said, however, that he has made no committments to anyone in the GOP White House race.

Shafer supplied the backing which Rockefeller had said in advance would add momentum to his campaign.

"I'm no longer a favorite son candidate, and I do support Nelson Rockefeller," he said. "A vast majority of our delegates will be with me. I do not have an exact count."

Pennsylvania will cast 64 nominating votes at the Republican National Convention.

Agnew, once head of the movement to draft Rocefeller for the nomination, said the new York governor "waited too long."

"I would now place Mr. Nixon in the category of being a very likely winner," Agnew said. However, he added it still is conceivable he could back Rockefeller. Two other favorite son governors, Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma and George Romney of Michigan, stuck with their positions of public neutrality. Bartlett is rated an almost certain Nixon supporter; Romney, once a candidate himself, has not tipped his hand at all.

The four governors were interviewed on the National Broadcasting Company program "Meet the Press" after the windup of the Republican Governors Association conference. The program was recorded for broadcast Sunday but the governors' comments were released for immediate publication.

The governors association at its windup meeting adopted unanimously a resolution proposing a series of statements for the Republican platform and "insisting that the Republican Party reflects these priorities through specific solutions."

Time For Decision Is This Summer-Kennedy

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Saturday that Americans will decide this summer how best to fulfill the goals of his late brother, Sen. Robert Kennedy.

"And each of us will have to decide in a private way, in our own hearts, and in our own consciences, what we shall do in the course of this summer, and in future summers," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

He spoke along with his mother at a television taping session in which he thanked the nation for the "strength and hope" received by the family from the nation's reaction to Robert's death.

His remarks and comments from Mrs. Rose Kennedy were taped Saturday for telecast later in the day over all three.

Edward and his mother spoke from wicker lawn chairs on the lawn of the Kennedy family compound overlooking the waters of Nantucket Sound.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, widow of the late president, stood on the lawn nearby but did not take part in the taping. Several relatives of the Kennedy family were also present.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's statement said in part:

"I hope that the countless thousands who have sent their expressions of sympathy and condolence to Ethel Kennedy and my mother and father and members of the Kennedy family can realize the strength and the hope that they have given to the members of the family during these last several days.

"This has not been the first tragedy that has afflicted my parents and the members of my family, and we pray that it is the last. But in each instance, in spite of a world of cruelty, we have been much more impressed with the compassion and the love and the warmth of the human heart than we have over any other emotion.

"We are deeply indebted to President Johnson and Mrs. Johnson for their words as well as their actions to the Vice President of theUnited States for his assistance, and we have been consolded by His Holiness Pope Paul, the Secretary General of the United Nations, and other heads of state and many political leaders.

"But most of all, it has been the people the people themselves, with outstretch hands of sympathy and strength that have most touched the hearts of the members of my family. It is the ones who could give the least who have given the most..

Mrs. Rose Kennedy said in part:

"And in our thoughts of him, and in our prayers, we shall remember Ethel as well as his little children with whom he laughed and prayed...that they too, may remember their father not as only a parent who gaily shared their sports and their childhood triumphs, but also as one who pledged his heart, soul, and strength, to the betterment of humanity and the spiritual enrichment and honor of our great country, the United States of America."

Area Roadwork To Begin Once Again

Work by the Menefee Construction Co. on West Highway 50 will be resumed Monday, according to James Menefee, secretary-treasurer of the company, following the settlement of a statewide strike of heavy equipment operators.

Menefee also stated that in addition to resuming the asphalting of the new four-lane highway, the work on Ohio Street, from Broadway to 16th, will be continued upon approval of the city engineer.

Travel Restrictions Stack Cars Leaving West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — New East German travel restrictions stacked up cars trying to leave isolated West Berlin into five-mile, five-hour waiting lines Saturday, as the Communists ridiculed West Germany's apparent inability to do anything about the tightened controls.

At the height of the delays, a line of more than 4,000 cars crept slowly forward under a hot sun, one car length at a time. Some women removed blouses and sweaters and sat in their brassieres.

"In Bonn," said the official East German Communist newspaper, Neues Deutschland, "the faces keep getting longer. The West German government must reconcile itself to the realities and draw the proper consequences."

The consequences meant recognition of East Germany and acceptance of the East German claim that West Berlin does not belong to West Germany but is an independent territory—the background of the current power play.

The new restrictions require new tolls and visa fees for the first time of West Germans and West Berliners traveling on the 110-mile autobahn linking the divided with the West through East Germany. Passports will be obligatory by July 15.

Saturday's outward bound traffic jam began at 3 a.m., coinciding with the start of a three-day holiday weekend.

West Berlin police said the snarl's dimensions were mostly the result of the East German red tape.

By midday, the waiting times had dropped to about two hours. There was no slowdown on traffic heading for West Berlin or by noon at a crossing point to a connecting road with Hamburg.

The controls did not affect travel by non-German foreigners, who have had similar transit requirements for years, or official Allied travel, which is handled by Russian soldiers, not East Germans.

A U.S. spokesman said he had no report of "Allied travelers encountering difficulty."

Asked if she had encountered any delay getting to the allied checkpoint past the lone line of German cars, a young GI's wife said, "No, only the Berliners have to wait."

Neues Deutschland, in an editorial, said there was no basis for West German protests against the measures and claimed the West Germans were finding no Western support.

West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger has called for "serious counter-reactions" from the city's U.S., French and British protectors. A spokesman said Friday he would be in touch shortly with the heads of state of the three governments.

Ann Landers

Life Isn't Safe Laments A Teen

Dear Ann Landers: What is this world coming to? It seems like the only place a person is safe anymore is in his grave. Last fall an airliner crashed into a row of houses and a dozen people were killed in their living rooms or asleep in their beds.

Several weeks ago a mother in Miami was walking in a park with two little children — one a baby in a carriage. A drunk driver missed the corner turn and drove up on the sidewalk and killed the mother and the baby.

Yesterday a neighbor told me her cousin's children were playing in their own backyard when a pack of wild dogs jumped the hedge and almost tore the children apart.

Every day we read of senseless killings on the streets of the big cities — in broad daylight, and often with onlookers who did nothing to help the victim.

I am a teen-ager who is wondering if people are safe anywhere. Please give me some encouragement. I am — OLD BEFORE MY TIME

Dear Old: Life today is somewhat more hazardous because (1) there are more people and they are living closer together. (2) There are more ways for people to get killed due to technological "progress." (3) More nuts have guns than ever before which means more people are going to be shot.

Yet in spite of all this, the insurance actuaries show that every male born in 1967 can expect to reach 68 years of age. Every female can expect to live at least three years longer. Medical science is largely responsible for lengthening the life span.

So stop worrying. Your chances today are actually better than ever. Besides, worry can shorten your life.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine asked me to drive down to the courthouse with her so she could "straighten around" her driver's license. It seems that when Polly renewed her license her hair was dark brown. She is now an ash blonde.

Polly took her license out of her purse and I noticed she had given her age as 48. I happen to know she is 53. When I called this "error" to her attention she replied, "I don't think it's anybody's business how old I am."

It occurred to me that Polly might get into trouble if it were discovered she gave a false age. What about this? — GLENVIEW, ILLINOIS

Dear Glen: State laws vary, but in Illinois, if a person knowingly makes a false statement when applying for a license he may suddenly find his license revoked.

More and more (thank heaven) state laws are being passed which require that everyone over 68 years of age take an examination in order to get his driver's license renewed. This makes it imperative that people be truthful about their age.

Confidential to Tired Of Love: What you are tired of isn't love. He sounds like a dingbat and you sound a little cuckoo yourself.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Poor People Try To Gain New Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — When leaders of the Poor People's Campaign issued a revised list of 23 priority demands this week, they weren't backing down from their original list of 99 so much as trying to put order into what had become an almost unmanageable undertaking.

What had started in mid-April as a campaign to guarantee everyone an adequate income, through guaranteed jobs or a guaranteed annual wage, had bogged down in leadership squabbles, organizational problems and an unseasonable, almost daily deluge of rain.

By Tuesday, when the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, campaign leader, met with newsmen to issue the new list of demands, Resurrection City, the campaign's shanty encampment, had gone seven days without a demonstration.

Demonstrators were trickling out, and going home, morale was sinking, and government officials who had been asking "What will they settle for?" were still wondering.

Abernathy took the original 99 demands he made in late April and picked out those he considered most important.

The 23 he chose put emphasis on food and job programs. And while Abernathy stopped short of saying the Poor People's Campaign would consider its work finished if these 23 were met, he did say—for the first time—that if they were, he would consider folding up Resurrection City.

Even if the city were dismantled, he said, pressure to satisfy the other 76 demands would continue on a more conventional level—meetings and letters rather than demonstrations.

It was the first time since the campaign began that Abernathy had indicated the demands he considered most important.

With the exception of three aimed specifically at Congress, Abernathy said, 90 per cent of them could be granted by federal agencies without new legislation.

Congress, original focus of the campaign, was asked to pass a bill to create jobs such as the one pending by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., pass the pending housing bill, and repeal the 1967 Social Security amendment freezing the number of families eligible for Aid to Dependent Children.

The other priority demands dealt with almost every area of government, from child care and school segregation to studying land and fishing rights claimed by Mexican-Americans and Indians.

The main emphasis was on giving more of America's surplus food to its own poverty-stricken people.

Concludes Chain Store Studies

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Better Business Bureau concluded a 3½-month study of five St. Louis food chain stores and found that any differences in prices and quality between suburban and poverty-area stores did not show evidence of discrimination.

The BBB started the study Nov. 1, 1967 following reports by a newspaper, the Human Development Corp., and a housewives group that they found prices were higher and quality lower in poverty area stores.

BBB President John J. O'Brien said 19 shoppers visited 64 stores 238 times during the study. They priced a list of 18 items—six meats, three produce and nine grocery items.

Of the 216 price variations found, O'Brien said, 70 were higher than the advertised shelf price and 78 lower in the poverty-area stores. In the suburban stores 23 price variations were higher and 45 lower.

O'Brien told a news conference Thursday the study showed no deliberate attempt to mark prices either up or down. He also said the idea that wilted or deteriorated meat and produce was moved from suburban to poverty - area stores was also discredited by the study.

O'Brien said meatcutters union regulations require meat to be cut and packaged in the store where it is sold and cut meat cannot be transferred.

Reds Eliminate Backhand Praise

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviets have stopped doing a free propaganda job for the United States.

Kremlin leaders are no longer reminding their people that U.S. industry is the biggest and best, the U.S. standard of living high er than almost anyone else's.

Instead, Soviet propaganda concentrates on trying to depict things in the United States as awful. It seeks to destroy the image of a prosperous, successful country.

The deaths of Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy have served this propaganda well. But it goes deeper, into denials of good things about American life.

For decades the headlong Soviet drive for economic progress in this underdeveloped country was spurred by comparisons with the U.S. economy. Russians continually were told that they must catch up with the United States.

The inevitable result was to create an image in Soviet minds of America as an economic ideal, a place where the good life really existed rather than just being a promise slowly fulfilled.

Joseph V. Stalin began this use of U.S. examples when he was using dictatorial methods for Soviet industralization in the 1930s. He brought in experts from the Ford Motor. Co. and other Americans to show how things were done in the United States, and he hoped the peasants who built new industrial towns would imitate U.S. techniques.

Nikita S. Khrushev inherited them when he became the top Soviet leader in the 1950s. He made it more explicit by talking often of U.S. examples and setting goals to surpass U.S. production.

The United States is agriculturally rich and it grows more corn than the Soviet Union, so we must grow more corn, Khrushchev said. He promised greater milk and meat output per person than the United States. He prodded industry to catch up.

"In the current decade the Soviet Union, in creating the material and tecnical basis of communism, will surpass the strongest and richest capitalist country, the U.S.A., in production per head of the population," said the Communist party program issued in 1961 under Khrushchev's guidance.

In theory, that party program still stands. But the theory is allowed to exist only because it would be embarrassing to admit what everyone knows: Much of the program has been quietly abandoned.

"The task set by the party," Leonid I. Brezhnev said after Khrushchev's ouster, "to surpass the per capita output achieved by the most developed capitalist countries, is being steadily fulfilled."

Occasionally there is mention these days of such claims as that Soviet coal production exceeds U.S. output. On most things the Soviet Union cannot within the foreseeable future catch up.

The old tendency to compare seems to have been brought under a control which avoids backhanded praise of the United States. Instead, Soviet propagandists seize upon all the ills of U.S. society, whether poverty or violence. They depict the illnesses as the reality.

PSC Hearings On MoPac Bid Are Delayed

JEFFERSON CITY — Public hearings on a mobile freight agency plan proposed by the Missour Pacific Railraod have been changed because of various requests of parties involved, according to the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The hearings, set in numerous communities across the state, were originally scheduled to be held in July. The PSC order changes the hearings to begin in August.

The railroad presently operates 44 agencies to handle freight shipments in that number of communities. MoPac proposes to replace 44 agencies with mobile service at 22 communities. The mobile units would serve the area of the present agencies. This proposal would affect communities all along the railroad lines.

The PSC has ordered MoPac to maintain its present freight operation at the agencies until after the hearings and a final decision is made. The hearings are now scheduled to begin in August and continue into the first part of September. The hearing in this area will open at 10 a.m. Aug. 26, in the Circuit courtroom in Warrensburg.

Future Hinges On Quebec

MONTREAL (AP) — The hottest issue in Canada's current political campaign is the Quebec question, and it's apt to get hotter before the June 25 election.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, a French-Canadian, has stirred the ire of Quebec separatists and of more moderate Quebec leaders by his tough stand on the future status of the French-speaking province.

.He apparently is staking his political life on the assumption that most Canadians, including a substantial number of Quebec residents, want to maintain a strong federal government rather than yield powers to give Quebec a special status in the confederation.

Robert Stanfield, leader of the Conservative party, has accused the 48-year-old Liberal leader of dividing the country and of "trying to turn English Canada against Quebec." Trudeau denies this and accuses the Conservatives of speaking with two voices—one for Quebec and one for the rest of Canada.

Trudeau's firm adherence to federalism is no surprise. He spoke out repeatedly on the issue before he was chosen last April to succeed Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson. His election was made possible by a substantial bloc of votes from the Quebec delegation.

It was on Trudeau's initiative that the Quebec issue was injected into the present campaign. From the outset he brushed aside suggestions that this question was too inflammatory and should be put on the shelf for postelection negotiations.

Envoys Concerned

PARIS (AP) — With U. S. and North Vietnamese envoys ready to enter their sixth week of talks here, American diplomats are concerned that increased enemy action in South Vietnam may create pressures on President Johnson to take sharp retaliation.

This could be an order to send U. S. bombers back over Hanoi and Haiphong and other areas of North Vietnam that now are off limits to attack.

"Perhaps the greatest danger we face just now, " one U. S. official said, "is the danger of a miscalculation on their part. They've threatened Saigon with rocket barrages as if they were confident of no retaliation. But the fact is they've got no guarantees whatever on that score."

Johnson halted all bombing and shelling of North Vietnam above the 20th Parallel on March 31. He offered to stop the rest of it, if Hanoi would also de-escalate. But, through Ambassador Xuan Thuy, its Paris negotiator, Hanoi has rejected any such de-escalation.

The resulting deadlock on this central issue of the negotiations has overshadowed minor but possibly signigicant tactical maneuvers on both sides. These keep alive the hope among Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and his advisers that some day progress toward ending the war will become possible as a result of their efforts.

In Ranks

Master Sgt. Roy A. Seaman, son of D. D. Seaman of Warrensburg, is a member of a unit that has earned the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Sergeant Seaman, an aircraft maintenance superintendent in the 21st Composite Wing at Elmendorf AFB, Alaska, will wear the distinctive service ribbon to mark his affilliation with the unit.

His unit was cited for compiling outstanding records in both combat readiness and training in severe weather to meet the urgent requirements for direct support of the Southeast Asian effort.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Trigg Sr., Higginsville.

Cpl. Thomas W. Griffith, U.S.M.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Griffith, Route 1, Sedalia, was home on leave from Hawaii May 25 to June 9 and has returned to Hawaii. He has been in the Marines since July, 1966.

All-Number Directory Due Soon

Printing of the first telephone directory for Sedalia containing all-digit telephone numbers is now under way, according to Jack Spilker, manager for Southwestern Bell. Delivery of the new directories will be later this month.

The conversion from numeral-letter combination numbers to all digits is part of the company's plan for changing over the All Number Calling (ANC).

As an example of how the new numbers will look, Spilker said the number, TA 6-9800, would change to 826-9800.

The changeover is necessary because telephone companies would run out of suitable letter-numeral combinations, the manager said. Three-fourths of the telephone numbers in the United States already have been converted to ANC.

"By switching to ANC, we will have available some 50 per cent more combinations for telephone numbers, Spilker added.

Dialing errors caused by confusing the numeral "1" and the letter "I" as well as the numeral and the letter "O" will be eliminated by the ANC system, Spilker pointed out.

Name Two Trustees To Library Board

The Pettis County Court and the Cooper County Court have appointed James Callis Route 2, Sedalia, and Oliver Gochenour, Route 2, Otterville, to the Library Board of Trustees of their respective counties.

According to Charles A. Repp, Library Administrator for the Boonslick Regional Library, the two men will serve for a term of four years effective July 1, 1968.

Lost Every Animal

SAIGON (AP) — The manager of a restaurant in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese section, said he lost his entire stock of turtles, monkeys, snakes, porcupines and boa constrictors when the Viet Cong occupied his establishment recently.

LT. COL. LAFATE KING, 2409 Albert Lee, was recently awarded the Air Force Combat Readiness Medal recognizing at least four years of sustained professional performance as an aircrew member qualified as combat ready. Lt. Col. King is Chief Pilot, 442nd Military Airlift Wing, an Air Force Reserve organization stationed at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base. Crews of the 442nd enter the regular Air Force cargo pipeline flying missions in the C-124 Globemaster throughout the world, including the combat areas of Southeast Asia.

Will Not Re-enact Gangland Murder

BURNABY, B.C. (AP) — The 1929 St. Valentine's Day gangland massacre in Chicago won't be re-enacted at a shopping center here after all. Too many people objected.

The show had been planned by promoter George Patey, who paid an undisclosed price for some bricks from the Chicago garage wall where gangsters dressed in police uniforms mowed down seven rivals.

Patey said most of the calls were from persons who contended the show would glamorize violence.

Smugglers Threaten Economy

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — All along Cambodia's 500-mile border with South Vietnam enormous quantities of rice are being smuggled to the Viet Cong.

The illegal trade is a threat to neutral Cambodia's precarious economy. The government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk is making vigorous efforts to stop the smuggling but seems powerless to prevent Cambodia from being the Viet Cong's principal granary. Western diplomats here estimate that at least 100,000 tons of milled rice — enough to feed a million Vietnamese for a year — was smuggled from Cambodia into Viet Cong controlled areas of South Vietnam in 1967. This estimate is supported by U.S. officials in Saigon.

Despite stringent new control measures, the trade is continuing in 1968.

The clandestine exports, nearly half of Cambodia's exportable surplus of rice, are lost to the country's trade balance and create one of Sihanouk's most pressing economic and political problems. He fears that the Viet Cong's massive purchases may expose Cambodian peasants in border areas to reprisal attacks from allied forces.

Although he maintains friendly relations with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, he has ordered a big government drive against the illegal export of rice. An able army officer, Maj. Gen. Soukham Khoy, has been appointed director of the Cambodian Customs Service and put in charge of the war against the smugglers and the corruption that helps them.

Chinese merchants in Phnom Penh are suspected of being involved, and action has been taken against some of them. Communist China's embassy is also suspected of playing a role, particularly in arranging payment for larger shipments.

Cambodian officials feel that neither the North Vietnamese Embassy nor the National Liberation Front's diplomatic mission here has directly helped to organize the racket.

The illegal traffic moves in trucks or sampans or is carried in individual sacks traved to Viet Cong representatives at the border.

The larger organized shipments go by truck.

Japanese Hostility Mounts

TOKYO, (AP) - Mounting hostility in Japan to the U.S. military presence goes hand in hand with a major effort to scrap the U. S.-Japanese military alliance in 1970.

Although the government of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato is a strong defender of the security treaty between the two countries and wants to continue it after 1970, growing pressures may succeed in neutralizing its provisions for common defense.

The campaign finds fuel in such incidents as the recent crash of an American jet, fear of Japanese involvement in Vietnam and in visits to Japanese ports by nuclear-powered ships and submarines.

Much of the anti-American pressure comes from Japan's Socialists and Communists who want the treaty terminated. But other groups have joined in making it clear that the U.S. military, with its 40,000 men and 140 installations, is no longer as welcome as it once was.

On June 2, a U.S. Air Force jet crashed on the campus of Kyushu University in southern Japan as it made a landing approach at Itazuke Air Base three miles away. This set off such a furor among local residents that the government now is considering whether it should ask the United States to relocate the base.

On May 2, the nuclear-powered submarine Swordfish entered Sasebo and sea water in the vicinity was found to register 20 times the normal radioactivity.

Tests conducted by U.S. experts absolved the Swordfish. Despite scientific evidence that the increase in the radioactive level would have to be several thousand fold before it would be damaging to human beings, public pressure caused the United States to agree to keep its nuclear submarines away from Japan pending completion of a more thorough investigation.

In April, scores of students and police were injured in violent demonstrations against the opening of a U.S. Army hospital in Oji, near Tokyo, to threat soldiers wounded in Vietnam.

The people of Oji voiced fears that soldiers flown directly from Vietnam might bring with them tropical diseases that could spread to the surrounding Japanese community.

These and other incidents are seen as preliminary to the big fight that will come in 1970 over the security treaty.

By then 10 years will have elapsed since the treaty was revised and either party may give notice of intention to terminate it.

Sato's conservative Liberal-Democrats have made it plain they intend to continue the treaty after 1970 and keep Japan under the American nuclear umbrella and conventional military protection.

The Socialists and Communists have promised an all-out campaign by 1970 to force the treaty's termination. They would have to topple the Liberal-Democrats from power and there is no indication the left wing could muster the power to do it.

But as incidents accumlate, the question is being raised among experts on U.S.-Japanese relations of whether the effectiveness of the treaty already has been neutralized.

The biggest problem facing the Sato government is convincing the public it is in the interests of Japanese security to have the treaty. Most Japanese do not see themselves confronted by any external threat.

To the average Japanese, still unable to completely forget his country's disastrous defeat in World War II there is a strong inclination to shun arms on the theory that if one does not possess weapons it proves he is peaceful and thus will not be attacked.

Junior Scout Troop 374, Heber Hunt School, recently held an overnight at Camp Sakajawea. The camp was set up in tents, which were furnished by parents, around the new Council Fire Circle.

Special guests for the evening cook-out were members of Brownie Troop 303, with their leaders, Mrs. Arlon Joy and Mrs. Robert Gardner. Third grade members of the troop flew-up as Juniors at a special camp-fire ceremony held later in the evening. After receiving their fly-up wings from the Brownie leaders, they were welcomed into the Junior troop by Mrs. Orrin C. Smith.

The new Juniors gathered around the fire with their bundles of fagots, made a Girl Scout wish, and threw their fagots into the fire. The evening ended with the group singing Girl Scout songs and later, "Taps."

Mrs. Smith, Mrs. James Schumaker and Mrs. Donald Carpenter are troop leaders.

FRANK Leet, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ellison, 609 South Lafayette, received his doctorate of education degree at recent commencement exercises at the University of Missouri. He is dean of instruction at the Mineral Area College, Flat River, Mo.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of the casket and undertaking services connected with the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy may be paid by the government.

A Senate aide said Thursday it is customary for the government to pay the basic funeral expenses of senators who die in office. Any bills received, he said, will be referred to the Senate Rules and Administration Committee for approval.

Payment of such expenses, he said, would be authorized under a resolution providing for a committee to "arrange for and attend" the funeral. The resolution was passed June 6, the day of the New York senator's death of gunshot wounds in Los Angeles.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bill providing criminal penalties for persons desecrating the American flag has dropped out of sight in the Senate.

Irked by flag-burnings and other mistreatment of the flag in antiwar rallies, the House passed the bill 385 to 16 last June 20.

It calls for a fine of up to $1,000 or up to one year in prison for anyone convicted of publicly mutilating, defacing, defiling or trampling a flag.

After the House action, the bill is known to have reached the Senate Judiciary Committee but there the trail ends. Though no hearings were held, the committee in September ordered the measure favorably reported to the Senate.

It should have been put on the Senate's legislative calendar next but never was. Nor is it on the committee's agenda. Technically, it's nowhere.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told a reporter Thursday he will start a search.

Promotions for general officers approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee Thursday included two four-star rank: Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer Jr., the Army's new vice chief of staff, and Lt. Gen. Gen. Berton E. Spivy Jr., named to be a U.S. member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military committee.

The median price of all new one-family homes sold in April was $24,100, according to the Commerce Department and Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Sullivan Is Subject Of Book

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Show biz books—

The inexplicable Ed Sullivan gets the full-scale treatment in a new book titled "Always on Sunday" (Meredith Press, $4.95.

The Sullivan mystique has been dealt with, usually in a snide way by his detractors. The comments range from Fred Allen's "Ed Sullivan will be a success as long as other people have talent" to John Crosby's "Mr. Sullivan, of course, is notoriously and admittedly without talent" to Harriet Van Horne's "He got where he is not by having a personality but by having no personality; he is the commonest common denominator."

Such comments have gotten under Sullivan's supposedly thick skin. But critics come and go; Ed Sullivan remains. On June 20 he marks the 20th anniversary of his weekly television hour.

"Always on Sunday" was written by the CBS publicist for the Ed Sullivan Show, Michael David Harris, and thus cannot be counted on for complete objectivity. Yet the biography is sometimes quite candid, as when the author recounts the Sullivan bloopers over the years.

Sheriff May Give Badge to Husband

LORDSBURG, N.M. (AP) — Sheriff Doris McCarty says she's ready to return her badge to her husband this fall, if he's elected.

Mrs. McCarty ran for sheriff in 1966 because her husband, Leroy, had served two consecutive terms and was ineligible for re-election. Her husband served as her deputy.

"I keep away from violence quicker than anything," she said Thursday. "I've never had to make an arrest. But I have put people in jail—mostly drunks."

She said her husband does most of the heavy work and she assists him.

Yancey Can't Shake Lee Trevino's Bid

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Ice-cool Bert Yancy continued his blazing record pace Saturday but couldn't shake tough, gritty Lee Trevino and Sunday the two of them collide head-to-head and only a stroke apart in the final round for the 68th U.S. Open Golf Championship.

Only a collapse by one of the two phenomenal pace-setters or a miracle surge by one of the far-back pursuers could keep it from being a two-man dogfight to the finish.

Yancey, the 29-year-old blond ex-West Pointer, fired an even par 70 over the rain-drenched Oak Hill course in the third round for a 54-hole score of 205, setting a mark for the first three rounds of this 73-year-old tournament.

But the swarthy, swaggering Trevino, a $30-a-week assistant pro a year ago, rallied from five strokes back with eight to play, spun off three birdies in the space of four holes and finished with a one-under 69.

This gave him a three-quarter score of 206, one shot back.

The record for the first three rounds of the Open was 206, set by Tommy Jacobs at Congressional in Washington, D.C., in 1964.

Now both Yancey and Trevino are within shouting distance of the 72-hole open mark of 275, established by Jack Nicklaus at Baltusrol a year ago.

By the U.S. Golf Association formula, the two front-runners will be paired for the second straight time in Sunday's dramatic climax.

Closest pursuers to the two leaders entering the final 18 over the 6,962-yard, par 70 Oak Hill course is the big, golden-haired Nicklaus, rated the game's No. 1 tournament player, and Charles Coody, one of the barnstorming golfing gypsies.

They are tied at 212, seven strokes back of Yancey and six back of Trevino.

The other member of golf's so-called big two, Arnold Palmer, had a more turbulant time.

The golfing millionare, winner of 51 tournaments, skied to a 79, one of the worst rounds he's ever shot as a pro, and afterward lamented that this game has suddenly gone to pot.

Palmer was at 226—21 strokes off the lead.

In a day marked by an early morning thunderstorm, a 25-minute suspension of play and periodic showeers, Bobby Nichols hammered out the day's best round—a 68—and joined 48-year-old Julius Boros, a two-time winner, at 213.

Boros shot a 71 with two bogeys on the back nine, spoiling what appeared headed for a subpar round.

Bill Casper, the year's leading money winner and strong pre-tournament favorite, birdied two of the last five holes for a 71 and a score of 214.

The former fat man with the exotic diet was bracketed at 214 with New Zealander Bob Charles, the former British Open champion, who shot 72; former PGA titleholder Al Geiberger, who matched Nichols' 68; Dave Stockton, 69, and Jerry Pittman, the club pro from Locust Valley, N.Y., 74.

Eye On Leader, Lead

Rochester, N.Y.—Lee Trevino has his eye on Open leader Bert Yancey as well as the championship, as the pair waits to tee off on the 11th hole. Trevino is charging the leader and trailed by only one stroke at this point.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

This past week it was interesting to read NEA Sports Editor Murray Olderman's column on Don Drysdale, especially the account of suffering the indignity of being "frisked" in view of a full stadium. It was umpire Augie Donatelli, behind the plate, who played the part of the gendarme.

The following is Olderman's column:

"After a record-setting third inning against the Philadelphia Phillies, which ran his scoreless string to 57 (eventually it reached 58 and two-thirds), Drysdale was intercepted by Donatelli on his way to the Dodger dugout.

Augie ran his hand over the tall pitcher's forehead. He made him take his cap off and tousled Drysdale's hair. Augie was searching for foreign substances, sometimes known as greasy kid stuff which when applied to the fingers gripping a baseball make that ball do odd tricks between the pitcher's mound and home plate.

"This is the year in which a pitcher cannot put his hand to his mouth.

"They banned the spitter," said manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies, "and made him (Drysdale) a great pitcher."

He was the greatest from May 10, when Sonny Jackson of Houston scored an unearned run on an error by Zoila Versalles, until Saturday night, June 8, when Howie Bedell, a minor league veteran, knocked in the third run of his major league career on a soft fly to left field.

"Mauch, coaching from the third base box during the game, had been on Donatelli to check out Drysdale for lubricating agents, popularly called vaseline. There are diverse ways of secreting the stuff — in the glove, on the wrist, under the bill of the cap.

"I want you," cautioned Donatelli, "not to touch the back of your cap." Drysdale nodded.

"An inning later, the umpire was after him again, at Mauch's urging. He wanted him to refrain from probing under the beak of his cap. "But Augie," protested the pitcher, "I can't get my fingers inside the front of my cap."

"In the spectrum of world events, Drysdale's suspected use of the vaseline pitch will not affect international tension, but it has had a profound influence on baseball analysts.

" 'It reminds me," pontificated Mauch, before he sent his Phillies out to face it, "out of a plot of ground I got. I seeded it. Grass came up, the snails were attracted and ruined the grass. So I got rid of the snails. Think that helped the grass? I got groundhogs instead. You know what I'm driving at?"

"He smiled sweetly.

" 'The spitter (i. e., snails, for purposes of analogy) was bad enough. Look what we got now."

"What has made Mauch suspicious, and it's strictly impersonal because he happens to be fond of Drysdale as a winter golfing buddy, is the sudden untouchability of the veteran Dodger pitcher.

"All I know is," said Gene, "he is 31 years old, and he isn't going to get any faster. Control? He has been able to put the ball where he wanted it the last eight years." He shrugged. "You figure it out."

"Mauch isn't along in his suspicions. Herman Franks of the Giants has said the same things.

Despite the aspersions, however, there is a genuine respect among baseball people for the free-wheeling Dodger pitcher's achievement this year.

" 'It's two-to-one," said Mauch, "against any pitcher in the majors ever pitching six straight complete games the rest of this season." Let alone six shutouts in a row.

"Drysdale's stature as a pitching great hasn't always been secure. He wins a lot, more games than any pitcher in Dodger history, but he also loses a lot. His career happened to coincide with that of Sandy Koufax — they came up the same year, 1955 — and that didn't help.

"But when Dyrsdale set the new scoreless inning record, Sandy was in the runway under the stands, leading to the dugout, wearing a blue Dodger warmup jacket, and a lot of more emotional over Don's achievement than anything he had accomplished until a bad elbow forced him to retire last year.

" 'Great," he rhapsodized, "fantastic — what else can you say?"

"Drysdale coolly pulled out a cigarette as he came in from the dugout and assessed his own reaction: "It's kind of beyond me a little bit right now. A month or five years from now, it will be nice to sit back and think about it."

"He might think about getting paid for endorsing a certain product, too."

Basketball School Set At CMSC

WARRENSBURG, MO. (JUNE 13) — A professional study of fundamentals and skills in basketball and the use of movies and television tape playbacks of each participant are among the offerings of the Central Missouri State College Mid-America basketball school scheduled for July 29-August 2 in Garrison Gymnasium, Warrensburg.

When head basketball coach Norm Short came to CMSC in 1966 he initiated the basketball school with 49 students, and last year the enrollment grew to 75 students. Enrollment for this year's third annual school is expected to reach 100.

The school offers a professional study of fundamentals and skills in basketball, game situations, competitive drills, use of movies and television playbacks, and the use of excellent facilities.

Instructors in the school will be Norm Short; LeRoy Hunt, Assistant Basketball Coach, CMSC, and guest instructors.

Any boy 10 years old through senior in high school with a signed statement from his doctor stating that he is physcially fit to participate may attend the school.

The school will run from 7:00-9:00 p.m. each night for one week beginning July 29. Free swimming will also be available to the school's participants from 9:00-9:30 p.m. each night in Morrow Pool.

Cost for the school is $15.00, and applications are now being accepted. Anyone interested in enrolling or wanting more information should contact Norm Short, Athletic Department, Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, Mo.

Argentina Rocca

Klondike Bill

International Wrestling Favorite To See Action

Argentina Rocca, international wrestling favorite, will be in action at Sedalia Tuesday night when the pros take to the ring at Convention Hall.

The veteran mat star, whose aerial style has vaulted him to world prominence, is pitted against unruly Bob Brown in the best of three-falls feature of a four-event program.

Rocca, 238 pounds, has not been in the Midlands for the last eight years. A headliner at Madison Square Garden on many occasions, the stylish heavyweight is regarded as the man with the educated feet. This traces to his soccer background in South America and the way he blends those tactics into his wrestling strategy.

Matchmaker Gust Karras recalls that Rocca drew the biggest gate in the history of wrestling at St. Joseph when, in the mid-50s he attracted 6,000 fans to that city's Auditorium. Almost 2,000 of them had to be turned away.

One of the original stars of televised wrestling, the veteran battler retains his unuaual style and still has the speed and agility to support his novel approach to the game.

A mixed tag team scrap, with heavyweights and midgets, is also on the bill. In that one, 347-pound Klondike Bill will join with colorful Lord Littlebrook to oppose the Viking and his midget partner, Little Bruiser.

Klondike Bill figures he has a score to settle with the Viking and Bruiser feels the same way about his match with the Littlebrook. It was Littlebrook who caused Bruiser to have 12 stitches in his forehead following their most recent pairing.

Other matches pit Ronnie Etchison and Steve Bolas, Littlebrook and Little Bruiser. Starting time will be 8:30.

US Rallies To Win Curtis Cup Play

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland (AP) — Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., led the rallying United States women's golf team to a 10½-7½ victory over Britain Saturday in the biennial Curtis Cup competition.

It was the fifith straight triumph for the visitors, who had trailed 5-4 after Friday's nine matches in the two-day event. They won the final three singles contests on Saturarday to retain the cup.

On the final day on the sun-baked Royal County Down links, the Americans won five matches, lost one and tied in three others. Over-all the United States won eight matches, lost five and halved the others.

Miss Preuss, a 29-year-old blonde, topped the victors with an unbeaten record in four matches. She shared in two foursomes victories, won one singles and halved another. Ann Irvin of England also had a three victories—one tie record.

The Americans on Saturday won two of the foursomes, and halved the other. In singles, the Cup defenders won three, lost one and halved the other two.

Mary Lou Dill, the 20-year-old U.S. Amateur champion from Deer Park, Tex., broke the 7½-7½ tie by defeating 24-year-old Ann Howard 4 and 2.

Then Peggy Conley of Spokane, Wash., gained the distinction of scoring the clincher when she edged Mrs. Margaret Pickard, a two-match winner Friday, 1 up.

Miss Preuss closed it out by beating Bridget Jackson 2 and 1.

A crowd of 4,000 watched the afternoon singles contests on the 6,535-yard links with its par of 38-38—76. Most of them jammed around the greens of the last two holes for the final matches.

In the earlier singles, Miss Irvin beat Shelley Hamlin of Fresno, Calif., 3 and 2; Mrs. Anne Welts, a three-time U.S. Amateur champion from Mount Vernon, Wash., and Belle Robertson, drew, as did Roberta Albers of Temple Terrace, Fla., and Vivien Saunders.

A crowd of about 2,000 was on hand in the morning when the Yanks won two foursomes and halved the other to go ahead 6½-5½.

Miss Preuss and Jean Ashley of Chanute, Kan., started the Americans off with an impressive 5 and 4 victory over the young team of Pam Tredinnick and Dinah Oxley.

Miss Hamlin and Mrs. Welts followed with a 2 and 1 edge over Mrs. Pickard and Miss Saunders.

Miss Dilly and Miss Conley won the last hole to tie Miss Robertson and Miss Irvin.

Since the competition started in 1932, the United States has won 11 to Britain's two with two others tied.

Matchup Of Racers Excellent

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP)—Probably the best matchup of the season among factory-sponsored stock race cars has been set for Sunday's fifth big superspeedway event of the season, the Carolina 500.

The long grind over the demanding, slightly - banked one North Carolina Motor Speedway starts at 1 p.m. Good weather is forecast and race officials predict a possible sellout of 60,000.

The first eight rows in the 44-car starting field couldn't have been more equally balanced between Ford and Chrysler products—the two major manufacturers which openly support stock ccar racing—had they been drawn from a computer.

After the first two days of time trials, this was the result: Two Fords in the front row, a Dodge and a Plymouth in the second row, then one product each of these manufacturers through the next five rows.

Lee Roy Yarbrough, a Ford ace who has been a perennial pole sitter this year but hasn't won a race, and teammate David Pearson, who has won eight events and more than $56,000, occupy the front row.

Yarbrough was the top qualifier with 118.643 miles an hour on his best of two qualifying laps. Pearson turned in 118.312 as five drivers bettered the track's old time trial mark.

Richard Petty, last year's big winner but who hasn't won a major event in 1968, is in the second row with Paul Goldsmith the Munster, Ind., veteran. Petty qualified his Plymouth at 118.312 and Goldsmith was timed at 117.681 in a Dodge Coronet. Both Petty and Goldsmith have won 500-mile chase at this track. Neither Yarbrough nor Pearson has.

Gene Mauch Is Fired As Philly Manager

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies was fired Saturday and replaced by 36-year-old Bob Skinner, manager of the Phillies' San Diego farm team in the Pacific Coast League.

Mauch obviously was the victim in a long, simmering fued with Phillies' slugger Rich Allen.

General Manager John Quinn announced Mauch's dismissal and said: "Bob Carpenter and I have talked about a managerial change for the last several days. We planned to sit down with Gene after last night's doubleheader about our decision."

"Unfortunately, his wife is not well and was hospitalized. As you all know, Gene flew home to be with her after last night's first game.

"Since we were unable to meet with him last night," Quinn continued, "Bob and I called him this afternoon (Saturday) and informed him of our decision."

The 42-year-old Mauch left the club after the first game of Friday night's twi-night doubleheader against the Los Angeles Dodgers to rush to the bedside of his ailing wife in Los Angeles.

Mauch was in his ninth year as manager of the Phillies, a club record. He also held the club record for consecutive winning seasons—six.

Under Mauch, the Phillies won more games than any of the managers in the club's modern history.

Skinner, who played in the majors for 11 years—eight with the Pittsburgh Pirates—becomes the 25th Phillies' manager since 1900. He also played for Cincinnati and St. Louis, finishing his playing career in 1966 with the Cardinals.

He turned to managing last year and won the Pacific Coast League Eastern Division with San Diego, then beat Spokane 4-2 in the playoffs.

San Diego currently is in fourth place in its division.

Skinner is in Seattle for Saturday's night game and will come here in time to take over the Phillies for Sunday's game with Los Angeles.

Quinn said Skinner's contract includes the remainder of this season and 1969.

Quinn also said that Mauch would be paid his full estimated $50,000 salary for this year.

Coach George Myatt, who took over the club for Friday night's second game, was to run the team against the Dodgers Saturday night.

Skinner's replacement at San Diego will be named later.

Undershooting a runway in an early morning monsoon squall, a Pan American World Airways 707 jetliner crashed and burned in Calcutta, India, killing six of the 63 persons aboard, including four Americans.

Rams Are Hoarding Top Picks

NEW YORK (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams are hoarding No. 1 draft choices like a team that is taking dead aim at Orange Juice Simpson when the Southern California star becomes draftable next winter.

The Rams picked up Detroit's No. 1 in the Bill Munson deal and added Washington's No. 1 in Friday's trade for the draft rights to Gary Beban, the Heisman Trophy winner from UCLA.

Beban couldn't get together with the Rams on a contract.

Apparently Beban would rather sit behind 33-year-old Sonny Jurgensen than 27-year-old Roman Gabriel. He will get a chance to show his stuff in the Coaches' All-American Game, June 28 at Atlanta.

Now that Pat Fischer has signed with Washington after playing out his option in St. Louis, that leaves only Dave Parks of San Francisco, Marlin McKeever of Minnesota and Ernie Clark of Detroit as the only NFL free agents.

Pete Rozelle probably will have this one tossed into his lap because the Redskins and Cardinals haven't been able to agree on the compensation required.

The players and at least one of the owners will get together for the first time since they broke off negotiations when the NFL Players Association honors George Halas, owner and retired coach of the Chicago Bears, at their annual banquet Sunday in Chicago.

The New York Giants like the looks of Bob Reed, formerly with the Minnesota Vikings and Los Angeles Rams, in their early rookie camp at Fairfield, Conn. Pittsburgh's Bill Austin is running a tryout camp for kickers Sunday at Temple Stadium in Philadelphia.

Phil Bengtson takes his first step as Vince Lombardi's successor when Green Bay opens its rookie camp Monday with 30 newcomers, plus the 1967 taxi squad and veteran centers and quarterbacks.

Kevin Hardy, a .398 hitter for Notre Dame's baseball team, is miffed because nobody picked him in the draft to set up a salary battle with the New Orleans Saints, who picked him as a defensive lineman. Hardy will play in the All-American Game to be seen Friday on ABC-TV at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

This used car is guaranteed 100%.

We won't sell you somebody else's headache.

We won't sell you our headaches, either.

All the cars people trade in on new VWs get our 16-point Inspection.

If they pass, we guarantee the free repair or replacement of every major working part* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first. (Sometimes they don't pass. In which case we fix what needs fixing before we guarantee them.)

So if you get a headache, it'll hurt us more than it'll hurt you.

Mrs. Thomas Speaks to Garden Clubs

Mrs. E. W. Thomas, Tipton, an outstanding flower grower and arranger and a member of the National Flower Show Judges Association, gave a most informative program Friday afternoon, June 14, at the joint meeting of the Sedalia Council of Garden Clubs, held at the First Methodist Church.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. George Dryden, first vice-president, and Mrs. Thomas was introduced by Mrs. Marvin L. Crutcher, second vice-president.

"Flower arranging can be so much fun," Mrs. Thomas said, "if you let it be, and let your own imagination go." Along the south side of the wall were backgrounds of all colors for arrangements. The first she had made with the flowers in mass arrangement of shades of pink roses at the base and pink delphinium forming a fan shape behind them.

For tri-color award in a flower show, Mrs. Thomas explained, the material used must be fresh, and the tall, graceful vines she used were bittersweet. She hastened to say that the bittersweet grew in her own yard because bittersweet is on the conservation list. She warned that whenever bittersweet vines are used in a show there must be a card saying it is grown in the yeard.

Mrs. Thomas displayed some of the things she used in making arrangements, the water cup holders for deep vases, the needle flower holders, and for this occasion, newspaper in the vase instead of sand which ordinarily would be used for a flower show. She uses florist clay, too, but she found something much cheaper and just as effective that her husband had ordered, caulking compound. This she uses, too, when she is taking arrangements to a flower show, a little strip on the bottom of the container will hold it in the car without tipping over.

Six things to remember in making arrangements, she pointed out, are balance, proportion, width, contrast, rhythm and scale. No arrangement is better than the way it is anchored, Mrs. Thomas told the group. All flowers should be cut and put in cool water over night before making an arrangement, and if a flower goes limp place its stem in boiling water.

An award of distinction at a flower show must be of dried plant material and with the base of a piece of drift wood she used sawed off large pine cones and oak leaves. To preserve the oak leaves she used one part glycerin and two parts warm water.

Another arrangement for which she chose cork shrub in her deisgning she used hardware cloth which may be purchased at the lumberyard and is useful for driftwood creations. With her she had three tools, wire clippers, garden scissors and kitchen scissors.

An unusual arrangements featured the allium, a large round ball of a flower on the end of a tall, stiff stem. The color is purple but Mrs. Thomas had sprayed three of them with ordinary paint, one purple, one orange, and one yellow, the creation giving the effect of fireworks bursting in air. These flowers, as well as carnations, may be cut, left ten days in water until they have dried and then sprayed with paint the desired color.

As she made the arrangements, Mrs. Thomas would take them over to where the colorful backgrounds were and set them before different colors asking her audience which they liked the best. Most of the arrangements were abstracts and in abstracts, she remarked, you express yourself.

One design was with a branch with many long thorns. On this she placed two red roses and at the bottom a bit of varigated hosta. "You can read all kinds of stories into arrangements," Mrs. Thomas said. She had a story for this one. She asked that others tell what they saw in it, and several saw it as the crucifixion. Mrs. Thomas, however, called it "Vietnam" and said that the green at the base she always added because we know there is hope.

One design she made she stated was the free form flow. Some abstracts can have free flow, too, she said. Among the vines she used was wisteria, which she said dried naturally white and did not need to be sprayed as others do.

Her last arrangement was of several stalks of white lillies with wisteria vines in a black container, the prayering hands in front, this on black velvet with a blue background, which she called: "Praying for Peace."

Following the program a tea was held, with punch and cookies served from a table covered with a net cloth with deep flounce over pink, and centered with a beautiful arrangement of pink roses, baby's breath and fern.

Arrest Group In Mule Train

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Police arrested 67 members of a Poor People's Campaign mule train Friday, and the wagon boss vowed to remain in jail until allowed to continue on the interstate highway where they were taken into custody.

State patrolmen halted the Washington-bound caravan after it began moving onto a busy expressway 30 miles west of Atlanta despite a warning from officers that state law prohibits pedestrians and nonmotorized vehicles on the multilane road.

Sixty-seven adults were charged with violating that law, a misdemeanor, and were taken to a National Guard armory, where they remained in custody hours later. Also detained were 32 juveniles, 16 or under, who were later released but chose to remain with the adults.

Bond was set at $100 for the adults.

Among the children were the 9-year-old son of the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and two young sons of Hosea Williams, a top SCLC official and campaign leader.

The mule train was headed for the nation's capital where several thousand persons have set up "Resurrection City" to demonstrate for jobs and income.

Wagonmaster Willie Bolden, an SCLC official in charge of the mule train segment of the Poor People's Campaign, spurned offers from Gov. Lester Maddox and Douglas County Sheriff Claude Abercrombie under which those arrested could continue their journey without prosecution.

Maddox offered to use state equipment to transport the 13 rattletrap wagons, 23 mules and three horses to any point in Georgia, presumably toward the state line. Maddox also offered to waive state law and allow the group to use the highway—Interstate 20—between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. when traffic is relatively light.

The sheriff volunteered to release everyone if they would take an alternate route into Atlanta.

Bolden rejected both offers. "We will continue on Interstate 20," he said.

Spokesmen for SCLC, which is sponsoring the campaign, said the interstate route was chosen because it is the most direct route to West Hunter Street Baptist Church in Atlanta, where a welcome rally had been scheduled.

The mule train left Marks, Miss., last month, and had traveled on interstate highways in Alabama with a highway patrol escort. However, state regulations on interstate travel vary.

The Georgia State Patrol had escorted the caravan since Tuesday afternoon without incident. Capt. J. H. Cofer, in charge of the escort contingent, said the Georgia officers had offered close supervision and protection on any route except the interstate.

Cofer said leaders indicated Thursday night they would take an alternate route into Atlanta.

"I don't know what happened to make them change their minds," he added.

After the arrests the mules and wagons were moved back several miles to an open field where the group had spent Thursday night.

Officials of the Atlanta Humane Society examined the animals and said some were in no condition to continue to Atlanta. They explained that some were old and some improperly shod.

While confined in the armory because of lack of space in the jail, those held had lunch, bedded down on blankets on the concrete floor or chatted.

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia has written to the family of an American soldier in Vietnam that most Asians consider members of the U.S. armed forces "invaders of our continent."

Sihanouk was replying to a letter from Martin Halloran, 34, who wrote the prince that he was concerned for the life of his soldier-brother because of Communist troop movements into Vietnam through Cambodia.

Halloran had asked for an explanation of Cambodia's policies to prevent North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troop movements through its territory.

Sihanouk said Halloran's concern "reveals an insensitivity to the sufferings and feelings of others which can best be described as crass."

Ding Dong History

DING DONG, Tex. (AP) — Ding Dong, in Bell County in central Texas, got its name from an impish sign painter. When two brothers, Bust and Zoales Bell, many years ago opened the town's only store—now closed—they had a sign painter erect a sign which pictured two bells. Candlelight Ceremony Joins Donna Fox and Harold Neas

TIPTON — Miss Donna Kay Fox became the bride of Mr. Harold C. Neas in a candlelight ceremony at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 1 at the Methodist Church in Tipton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Fox, Tipton, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Neas, Nevada.

The Rev. J. Elmer Brunk performed the double ring ceremony.

The altar table in the background was graced by an open Bible flanked on either side by lighted white candles. The family pews were reserved with arrangements of jade leaves tied with white satin bows.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, chose a fitted A-line gown of peau de soie. She wore a redingote of silk illusion over her gown, which extended to a chapel length train. INSTANT HAIR FASHION

The curly look is now an instant hair fashion, thanks to curlytop wigs and hairpieces. The most revolutionary is the snythetic wig in a new denier that duplicates the look and feel of hair. These curly wigs will hold up in fog and wet weather, and can be crushed in a suitcase or washed like a piece of lingerie, hung up to dry and worn again without the need of a resetting.

TAKE CARE OF CUTICLES

Have you been cuticle nibbling? If winter - chapped hands have left your cuticles dried out and jagged, it's almost impossible to avoid snagging your nylons. After washing your hands, while the skin is still softened, push the cuticule away from your nails. You may find that you also need the help of a cuticle remover. Trim the loose skin and apply an antiseptic to help heal and relieve sore, torn skin. Follow this treatment with frequent applications of your favorite hand cream.

School Days Are Recalled At a Reunion

BLACKWATER — Lunches in sweating tin syrup buckets and 15-minute recitation periods were recalled at the annual reunion of the one room Fairplay school, which was held at Blackwater 100 consolidated school recently, with 36 alumni and friends present for a basket dinner.

The building is located about 6 miles northeast of the Marshall junction and has since been converted into a residence. The alumni president, Dr. Garland E. Tickemeyer, associate professor of philosophy at CMSC, presided over the business meeting and was re-elected for the ensuing year.

Among the outstanding members present was William Marshall, director of the State Agricultural and Conservation Service. Correspondence was read from two former teachers, Owen C. Rawlings, Marshall, and Virginia Ranley, Independence.

Want Nine Month Season On Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Shippers on the Missouri River want a nine-month navigation season, but Army engineers are reluxtant to abandon the traditional eight-months season now in effect.

Shippers held their 14th annual navigation conference with the Army engineers.

A.C. Collins of the Sioux City-New Orleans barge line suggest the season start at mid-March instead of April 1, and end in mid-December instead of Nov. 30.

Other shippers supported Collins. They also pointed out that they will be competing against a 12-month season when the Arkansas River is opened to navigation.

Brig. Gen. C. Craig Cannon, Missouri River division engineer, said ways to extend the season would be sought. However, he said, ice on the upper Missouri and the spawning habits of fish have to be considered.

Elmo McClendon, of the division reservoir control center, said ice on the river generally has made it impractical to release water for navigation before April. And early fall freezing could make it difficult to maintain a flow past late November, he said.

McClendon said it might be possible to get an earlier start by releasing water from ice-free reservoirs on rivers which are farther south.

New Unisex Clothing To Be Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — Vive la difference? That's old fashioned. At least among the avant garde this is the year of unisex.

That age-old battle of the sexes over who in the household wears the pants has come to a draw. Both do, the same style, interchangeably.

Moreover, the really togetherness couple have a common supply of shirts, jackets, jewelry, neckties and hats. They share the same hairdresser and, while party-hopping, carry their combs and cigarettes in the same handbag. A divorce would leave one or the other without a thing to wear.

"Why should they try to separate us so?" pondered Cary Grant whose screen image has made millions of women happy that men were men. "We should all just smell well and enjoy ourselves."

Cosmetics is a means of unifying the sexes, said the actor in announcing that he had become a board member of a cosmetics firm.

Just a few days earlier designer Rudi Gernreich told buyers at his fall knitwear collection that the skirt was dead. Despite efforts of others to resuscitate the romantic midi, the Californian insisted that clothes for men and women were now converging.

"It is the only practical thing for our contemporary way of life," said Gernreich, dressed in a belted tunic and belled trousers like those on his manikins. Still the knitted costumes spelled out the difference in girls as significantly as a shrinken sweater.

Gernreich, lest it be forgotten, pioneered unisex fashions by introducing bathing trunks for women five years ago.

Missouri Sets Pace In Mental Health Clinics

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said Friday Missouri is making progress in treating mental retardation and its nine regional clinics represent "a plan which is serving as a model for the nation."

The governor said the clinics are bringing "physical and mental salvation for those who need it desperately—and spiritual relief for their anguished families.

"But most of all these clinics represent the priceless gift of hope—which had not existed in years gone by.

"They also represent an answer to the crying need for early professional treatment, a need which society had long neglected.

"Our entire program, I feel, is bringing to Missouri a period of professional help and personal hope in the field of mental retardation."

The governor's remarks were part of a speech prepared for the 14th annual convention of the Missouri Association for Retarded Children.

Seven of the nine new mental retardation clinics are now in operation. Hearns reported that in their first few months they serviced more than a thousand admissions, including 800 in-patients, 150 out-patients and more than 100 day care patients.

At the same time, he said, local interest has grown and satellite programs are being established—such as a day care program at Cameron for general palsied and retarded children, being helped by the regional clinic at Albany.

"Each community has its own problems and its own local solutions," the governor said.

"Some communities may feel a need for a halfway house or other small residential setting. Some may feel that a workshop or a day care center will fill their needs.

"Local involvement by interested people, such as ourselves, is the key. Strong local efforts, coordinated with advice and consultative services from appropriate state agencies, offers great hope in tackling the problems of retardation."

Hearnes said he has concentrated on the mental health program as governor.

"I don't claim to have found all the answers or to have witnessed all the progress I would like to see," he said, "but I can assure you today that progress is being made."

Later, in a speech at the St. Louis State School and Hospital to dedicate a new $15,000 playground, the governor announced two grants to the school from the National Institute of Mental Health of the U.S. Public Health Service.

One is a hospital improvement grant of nearly $300,000 to set up a new intensive treatment program for the severely and profoundly retarded patients who make up more than 60 per cent of the population there.

The other is a hospital in-service training grant of $75,000 to upgrade professional care.

Hearnes said the playground dedication coincides with completion of an $85,000 modernization project to build a new covered entranceway and install dormitory elevators.

He also noted the legislature has approved planning funds for a regional diagnostic clinic. This, like the one to be built at the Marshall state school, will bring the number of such clinics in Missouri to 11.

The governor said plans also are under way for a complete new dietary facility at the St. Louis state school. When it is completed, the present kitchen and cafeteria will become an indoor recreation area.

Suggests A Reorganization Of Youth

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A complete reorganization of Nazarene youth was suggested Thursday by Dr. George Coulter, a general superintendent and advisor of the Nazarene Young Peoples Society.

"Youths no longer are isolated," Coulter told delegates to the society's international convention. "They are in the mainstream of our church. In my opinion youth work now needs the status and stature of other phases of church life."

The church leadership is expected to recommend to the general assembly next week that an eighth department of the church be created to encompass youth work.

The youth society's convention opened Thursday and will run through Saturday.

The church's 17th quadrennial assembly will open Monday and is expected to draw 30,000 persons. About 10,000 attended preassembly meetings Thursday.

Mrs. Gordon T. Olsen of Eugene, Ore., was re-elected international president of the Nazarene World Missionary Society. She reported that the society had added 45,000 members, bringing the total to 272,200.

Mrs. Olsen said $13,398,000 was raised for world missions from 1964 to 1968. The society has been asked to set a goal of $15 million for the next four years.

Receives Millions From Stock Market

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The widow of an Air Force sergeant will receive more than $2.5 million from her husband's estate —an estate she didn't know existed until his death early this year.

Sgt. Edwin Lewis Clark had amassed more than $4 million through stock market investments. His only luxury was a $6,000 Cadillac.

The couple lived apart after Mrs. Clark filed for divorce.

Mrs. Clark, now living in Orlando. Fla., is to receive $650,000 in cash and 28,950 shares of Transamerica Corp. stock.

Under the agreement filed Thursday in Superior Court, her husband's brother and three sisters will share the rest of the estate.

Careful Planning Makes Successful Fair Garden

How can you get between 3,000 and 4,000 plants of a dozen different varieties to bloom in the same nine-day period?

"It takes lots and lots of plain hard work and plenty of luck with the weather," Chester Anderson, foreman of the Missouri Highway Gardens at the Missouri State Fair says.

Anderson supervises a five-man crew of green-thumb Missouri Highway Department men that plant and maintain up to 8,000 plants a year to insure that the Fair's Highway Gardens will be full of beautiful blooms during Fair Week, Aug. 17-25.

"Nobody can lay down our work schedule on paper," Anderson says. "You've simply got to watch each plant."

Careful surveillance of the plants is particularly important with new hybrids whose growing habits are not yet known. The cherry blossom petunia, for example, is a just developed hybrid variety that will see its first growing season ever at the 1968 Missouri State Fair.

Other plants, like the 13 varieties of tropical water lilies in the Highway Gardens' lily pond, require much special attention. The tropical lilies' pads often grow to porportions that require careful trimming of neighboring pads and protection from the sun and insects. One Highway Gardens variety — the Cruisiana Victoris — grows four to five feet in diameter.

Other plants have their own special needs. Zinnias mildew when watered too heavily. Some plants, like roses and begonias, must be watered from the top; other plants must be watered at their roots.

George J. Phillips, Highway Department assistant division engineer and supervisor of the Highway Gardens, and foreman Anderson hope that their thousands of flowers will bloom together again this Fair week. But as Anderson says, "We can never be completely sure. We just have to keep working and pray for good weather."

Youngster Requires New Heart

HERMISTON, Ore. (AP) — The life of 7-year-old Rebecca "Becky" Howland is in some other child's chest.

Becky needs a heart transplant to stay alive.

She returned to this northeastern Oregon community Tuesday from an examination by Dr. Norman Shumway at Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif.

Shumway said after the examination if a suitable donor is found Becky will be considered for a heart transplant. Shumway has performed two transplants. The patients died from other complications.

He said the search for a suitable heart for Becky would be difficult because she is a young child requiring a smaller heart than adults.

Dr. John Bussman, a Portland, Ore., heart specialist, says the girl has a left heart ventricle which doesn't function properly.

Bussman, a classmate of Shumway at the University of Minnesota Medical School, said Becky might have a growth in that part of the heart chamber or might have a large blood clot.

When Shumway gets a suitable heart, he will notify the Howlands.

"We're all packed and ready to go," Becky's father, Elton Howland, said Thursday.

The Howlands do not have any other children. Becky is a pretty child, with shoulder length light brown hair and a big grin which reveals she is missing her two front teeth.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government lost heavily in two more House of Commons special elections Thursday, giving more evidence that Laborite political fortunes are at a low ebb.

The Conservatives captured the longtime Laborite stronghold of Oldham, a textile town and trade union center. The Laborites retained another party stronghold in the Brightside district of industrial Sheffield but got 12,474 votes less than they did in 1966, an indication of the workers' anger with the government's austerity program.

Wilson's government lost four seats March 28 after publication of the national budget with its stiff new taxes and a two-year wage freeze.

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Two former inmates of the Auschwitz concentration camp—Bernhard Bonitz, 61, and Josef Windeck, 64—were sentenced today to life imprisonment for the murder of other prisoners in Nazi Germany's largest death factory.

The trial was the third for persons accused of murder at the extermination camp in southern Poland. It was the first trial of former inmates.

Bonitz and Windeck were among the first prisoners to arrive at Auschwitz. Both had been professional criminals, Bonitz a safecracker and Windeck had 25 convictions for theft.

HONG KONG (AP) — The confirmed death toll in Thursday's landslides rose to 14 today when rescue workers found two more bodies in the wreckage of hillside shacks. Nine more persons are believed buried under tons of mud.

ROME (AP) — Italians got their news from radio and television today after printing unions went on strike for 48 hours, shutting down all newspapers.

The unions ordered a walkout after a breakdown in contract negotiations. The main issue is job security for workers affected by future automation.

Lotteries Net Profit

CANBERRA (AP) — Australian state governments netted 20.8 million Aussie dollars—$23.3 U.S.—from state-run lotteries in the year ended June 30, 1967, the Census Bureau reported. Prizes are tax-free cash. Top prizes amount to $224,000 on tickets costing $6.72.

Files for Wrong Office and Wins

CHARLESTON, W.Va. AP) — James M. Brown, a Parkersburg lawyer, filed for the wrong office during a recent primary but won anyway, then demanded a filing fee refund.

Brown wrote to the secretary of state's office, saying he had filed for the Republican Executive Committee in his senatorial district, and so demanded a refund of $9 as the filing fee was $1 and he mistakenly paid $10.

However it was revealed that Brown had registered instead for the state Republican Executive Committee, was elected and the filing fee stood.

Higher Casualty Trend Is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total U.S. Vietnam casualties, mounting relentlessly during the Paris talks, could top a quarter of a million by year's end unless there is a truce or peace.

American combat deaths and wounds serious enough to require hospital treatment could surge beyond the Korean War toll.

These trends are indicated by an analysis of statistics which underscore the impact of the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese offensives, and Hanoi's fight-and-talk strategy.

U.S. and South Vietnamese battle casualties so far this year are running at about double last year's rate.

The latest figures show, too, that the United States sustained 13,371 battle casualties in the first four weeks after U.S.-North Vietnamese negotiations opened in Paris on May 10.

According to an updated count, U.S. combat casualties reached 177,716 as of June 8. This covers a nearly 7½-year period that started Jan. 1, 1961, when the United States had only a few hundred advisers in South Vietnam. Now there are about 533,000 Americans there.

This cumulative total breaks down into 24,744 killed, 80,541 wounded who needed hospital care, and 72,431 who suffered lesser wounds and didn't have to be hospitalized.

The number of U.S. dead and wounded averaged out to 2,692 a week over the first 23 weeks this year—twice the 1,372 weekly average in 1967.

Assuming the 2,692 weekly average, or something close to it, prevails over the rest of the year, the over-all war total could hit 255,769 casualties by the end of 1968.

The count of Americans killed in combat has averaged 379 a week this year, dropping as low as 184 at the start and soaring as high as 562 in early May.

Projecting the 379 a week average over the entire year would boost battle deaths in the Vietnam war to 35,730—more than 2,000 above the Korean War's 33,629 killed in combat.

The cost in hospitalized wounded has averaged out to 1,198 U.S. servicemen a week so far this year. Extending this over the full year, as in the case of the combat dead, would bring the war total of such wounded to 115,284. That would be 12,000 more than the 103,284 in the Korean War.

The Pentagon contends it is misleading to try to compare total Vietnam casualties with those reported in other wars.

This, officials say, is because the Vietnam reports include figures for wounded not requiring hospital care. No such statistics were kept in earlier wars, the Pentagon says. The 72,431 total of nonhospital wounds in the Vietnam war as of June 8 represents a significant portion of the 177,716 over-all U.S. casualties recorded to that date.

Such lesser wounds, the Pentagon says, include cuts, bruises, abrasions and the like. Treatment involves application of antiseptics or antibiotics and bandaging, if necessary.

Often, officials say, men go back to their duties immediately after being treated, and thus cannot be counted as losses.

However, some comparisons are possible by limiting them to certain statistics kept in all wars—battle deaths and hospital wounds.

By this standard, 1968 almost certainly will eclipse the most costly full year of the Korean War, 1951, when 11,358 Americans were killed and 43,576 wounded.

The toll this year already is 8,722 killed in combat and 27,553 sent to hospitals—with 1968 not even half finished.

Gunship on Rocket Hunt

SAIGON (AP) — At sunset, two helicopter gunships skimmed over the rooftops of Saigon and headed out to locate the launching sites for the 122mm Russian-made rockets that have been slamming into the city for more than a month.

In the lead ship, Capt. Reid McBride of Logan, Utah, guided the flight along a general northeasterly direction, to avoid staring into the declining sun, and seldom climbed higher than 5 to 10 feet above the treetops.

McBride wore "chicken plate," a steel bullet-proof vest. So did his copilot, WO John McQueen of Torrance, Calif., and the two machine gunners leaning out the open doors, Spec. 4 Kirby Spain of Dardenelle, Ark., and Spec. 5 Thompson Lee of San Antonio, Tex. So did the reporter sitting on the ammo cannister.

In less than two minutes of flight time, Saigon's shanty town suburbs fell away into a watery green world of rice paddies, swamps, endlessly snaking rivers and canals.

Three times a day at dusk, dawn and midday, sometimes more often when they were scrambled during an actual rocket launch, McBride and the other members of the Razorback gun platoon of the 120th Aviation Company had flown the same 25-mile patch of paddy and pineapple plantation.

Intelligence officers believe that the rocket tubes and their firing devices are unloaded by freighter at Sihanoukville in Cambodia, then taken by sampan down the countless fingers of waterway that claw at Saigon. The 3-foot tubes are light enough to cart on a wagon or even a bicycle to their launching sites, which must be within five miles of the capital city.

The rockets come equipped with a launching base, but they can and have been fired from inside haystacks resting on a bipod of bamboo poles, with the rocketeer in a nearby haystack or behind a fence triggering a mechanism no more complicated than the cord on an electrical shaver. When fired this way the rockets are wildly inaccurate, which may explain the relatively little tactical damage but the high civilian casualties inflicted on the city in the past month.

It was fully dark now, save for a glow from burning buildings that told of street fighting in Cholon and Gia Dinh. Rain began to fall, and their only hope of locating a rocket site was to catch the bright white lick of the muzzle blast and the orange fire ball arching toward the city.

McBride returned to Tan Son Nhut and was barely settled down to watch Perry Mason on the television set in their "scramble shack" when the artillery began thumping away.

From here on out, they were on a 24-hour alert, ready to run for the ships at word of a scramble.

The crew had just settled down, boots still on, when the FM tactical radio cut in on Perry Mason's summing up scene.

"Razorbacks scrambled to the west, Viet Cong moving near the keyhole."

The keyhole is the big loop that the Saigon River makes near the old Bien Hoa highway just beyond the city limits in Gia Dinh Province.

The rain was a torrent, whipped by skitting winds, as the Razorbacks raced to their gunships.

South Vietnamese marines, who had reported the enemy movement, thought it might be a rocket platoon moving to a new location. At first most of the rounds aimed at Saigon came from the west. Lately, they had come from the south, especially the rockets aimed at the docks. Now, more and more, the Razorbacks were scrambled in every direction.

"We'll have to orbit until the artillery subsides," said McBride, but he had no sooner climbed to 2,000 feet than the radio issued new orders.

"We have a negative target for you—repeat—negative. Return to base."

The rain cascaded across the windshield in a constant deluge. A hard night for the Razorbacks. In that inky darkness, they could never locate the white lick of flame from the tube.

"You gotta hand it to old Charlie," said McQueen, finally pulling off his boots. "He knows when he's got everything going for him."

Some good cooks like to dredge a leg of lamb with seasoned flour before roasting. This is an old-time method, but it's still good!

Hail to "The Old Man"

If one could herd all the 7,000 fathers in the community into one spot there would be a conglomeration of egoists on family discipline sufficient to confuse all of nature's children.

If such a group was asked to define the proper method of rearing a family or successfully inviting child obedience, there would be a babble of tongues comparable to that of biblical recollection.

Among them would be weak-willed, doting fathers, irrational and stern-visaged fathers, indifferent fathers, profane fathers, shouting fathers, silent fathers, and just plain fathers.

Under the tutelage of such an aggregation all children are expected to turn out into a pre-designed pattern of disciplined perfection, an unattainable goal without the guidance of a mother's hand.

So it is significant that Mother's Day precedes Father's Day in the calendar of national observances and tributes.

Notwithstanding the natural critical attitude of children toward their father, this day should be one during which "the old man's" shortcomings should be forgotten by the family; one during which the real devotion deep down in the consciousness of every child should blossom forth with kind words, a smile and perhaps a gift.

One must admit that the job of fatherhood requires vast resources of virtues. Steadfast application of them results in the most substantial of rewards — satisfaction of participating in the creation and molding of the greatest of all works of art, a human being.

Deep down in his heart every "pop," "dad," and "father" loves his children and for this day he should have the privilege and pleasurable experience of floating in air because his parental authority is genuinely recognized at least once a year.

GHS.

"Can I Give You a Lift, Cherie?"

Burnt Food

Now cooking isn't something
I'm skilled in, that's for sure,
I wonder if for burning things
There ever is a cure,
I put some food on the stove,
I turn the burner low,
And off to do something else
About the house I go,
Or maybe it's the telephone,
Or someone at the door,
The minute that I leave the food
I think of it no more
Until a funny odor
Begins to fill the air
And then, all of a sudden,
I remember that it's there,
Exactly where I left it
And I know, without a doubt,
The food I could never eat,
I'll have to throw it out,
The pan is just as black as tar,
The house is filled with smoke,
I open up the kitchen door
Right now — before I choke,
I take the half burned food out
Of it the best I can
And try to scrape the bottom of
The very coal black pan;
Was it baking powder someone said
To use when things do burn
Or was it baking soda?
I never seem to learn,
And so I use both of them,
I cross my fingers tight
In hopes that the burned black
Will come out all right,
I'm not hungry any more
Food has lost its great appeal
And it really is a blessing
For I've nothing for a meal,
I simply just forget about
That repast we call lunch
And meekly pick up something
Upon which I can munch.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

The Point of Diminishing Returns

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — For their own good and the good of the country, the Poor People's March should now fold up Resurrection City and go home. In the first place, they have achieved some of their goals. A $5 billion housing bill has been passed; more than $200 million in surplus food has been earmarked.

In the second place, the poor people have reached the point of diminishing returns. If they stay longer, they may hurt what they have accomplished.

No group in years has been treated so generously by the federal government, which allowed them to camp on a public park, and by the churches of the city and by most of the residents of Washington. The churches opened up their doors, women made thousands of sandwiches, people contributed blankets, the Hechinger Hardware Stores contributed lumber at cost, many grocery chains contributed food.

The public park adjacent to the Lincoln Memorial has been churned up by bulldozers and the daily wear of several thousand feet to a point where it will take at least a year to restore the grass. Poor people's marshals, acting with the officiousness which they objected to on the part of Birmingham police, have even barred picture taking, saying, "These are private homes," though of course they are located on land belonging to all the taxpayers.

Negro newsmen have been beaten and pushed around. The Supreme Court, which has done more for racial equality than any institution in history, had its windows broken. The Negro population of Washington has suffered economically because summer business is down, tourism is off. Greyhound bus alone cancelled $200,000 worth of bus trips to Washington. This hurts the Negro population of Washington first.

All this has been taken with considerable forebearance by the citizens of Washington.

Negro newsmen have been the most critical. "The Washington Press," wrote William Raspberry, widely read Negro columnist of the Washington Post, "has, if anything, been too kind. If more of the internal strife, lack of control and poor discipline had been reported, there might have been more pressure... to set things right."

Louis Lomax, national Negro columnist, has reported on "absentee leadership" of "a city of chaos" and told of a "night of violence, disruption and non-leadership that easily could have spilled over into Washington itself."

He reported how "several carloads of middle-class women, Negro and white, who arrived with food and clothing were brusquely turned away by marshals whose lack of knowledge manifested itself in surliness and incredible rudeness."

Lomax described Resurrection City as "completely unsafe, a jungle at night." and as early as May 25 he called it a "city falling apart, dangerously so."

It is now June 15 and Resurrection City, abandoned by a majority of the poor people, should fold up and go home.

—Closed-Door Vote—

Despite the assassination of three national leaders in four and a half years, and despite the current clamor by the American people for gun control, an overwhelming majority of Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee voted against a strict gun control law this week.

The vote was behind closed doors and the public could not know how the vote went. However, we can report the roll call.

The twelve Republicans who voted against restrictions on the sale of the instruments of assassination were:

William M. McCulloch, Ohio; Richard H. Poff, Va.; Clark MacGregor, Minn.; Edward Hutchinson, Mich.; Robert McClory, Ill.; Henry P. Smith, III, N.Y.; William V. Roth, Jr., Del.; Thomas J. Meskill, Conn.; Charles W. Sandman, Jr., N.J.; Thomas F. Railsback, Ill.; Edward G. Biester, Jr., Pa.; and Charles E. Wiggins, Calif.

Four Democrats voted with the Republicans against gun control as follows:

William M. Tuck, Va.; Robert T. Ashmore, S.C.; John Dowdy, Tex.; Basil L. Whitener, N.C.

Two Republicans who voted for gun control were Charles Mathias, who is running for the Senate in Maryland, and Arch Moore, who is running for Governor of West Virginia. Two Democrats were absent: Edwin Willis, La., and Jack Brooks, Tex.

The bill was relatively weak and did not call for the registration of guns. It merely added long guns to the sale of hand guns which are already regulated in the anti-crime bill.

When the vote was announced 16 to 16, which meant defeat, Rep. McCullough, the ranking Republican, explained that he was voting "No" because of the too rapid procedure. He wanted time to debate the bill.

Politely, Chairman Celler reminded McCullough that the Senate amendments to the crime bill had been rammed down the committee's throat without any debate at all.

"I asked that these amendments be sent back to conference for careful consideration," said the chairman. "The amendments include not only a gun control bill but vitally important amendments affecting rulings of the Supreme Court. You Republicans voted overwhelmingly against proper debate."

NOTE: The Democrats who voted inside the Judiciary Committee for gun control were: Emanual Celler; Michael Feighan, Ohio; Peter Rodino, N.J.; Byron Rogers, Colo.; Harold Donohue, Mass.; Robert Kastenmeier, Wis.; James Corman, Calif.; Don Edwards, Calif.; William St. Onge, Conn.; William Hungate, Mo.; Herbert Tenzer, N.Y.; John Conyers, Mich.; Andrew Jacobs, Ind.; and Joshua Eilberg, Pa.

Letter to the Editor

WILLIAM P. McCUNE (1611 East 13th) — The recent assassination of Robert Kennedy has provoked a new flurry of articles in the news as to what is wrong with our Society. I was thinking of this as I watched the small crowd gather for our "KNOW YOUR CANDIDATE" meeting at Liberty Park on the eve of Senator Kennedys' burial. It just might be an indicator of one of the things wrong with our society when in a county of 35,000 population, on a beautiful Saturday evening, a crowd of less than 100 people (excluding the candidates themselves) would turn out for a chance to personally see and hear our candidates for county, state and national offices. The candidates elected will be a part and parcel of that giant machine we call government, a machine which every year seems to wield a stronger influence on our lives and our society.

It's a shame when a public-spirited organization like the Farm Bureau can arouse no more interest in such an event despite publicity on both radio, television and in the Democrat and Capital. It's a shame when public-spirited candidates drive 100 miles and more to a meeting to find a small crowd present. But the biggest shame lies with the people of Sedalia and Pettis County and the country over for the "apathy" or "don't care" attitude.

If we are searching for symptoms of what is wrong with our country, surely this should be among them.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A.W. Klang was re-elected Grand Knight of Sedalia Council, No. 831, Knights of Columbus. Others elected were: Deputy Grand Knight, Rudolph Bus; Chancellor, J. Frost Waddell; Recorder, Frank Mehl; Warden, Thomas Ortwig; Treasurer, Thomas Keating; Advocate, Ray Williams; Trustee, L.H. Archias; Inner Guard, Joe Steffen; Outer Guards, W.A. Buchholz and Fred Hanter.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The coal dealers of Sedalia formed a pernament organization at their first meeting held at Bothwell Hotel. A. S. Wright was elected president and W. O. Stanley secretary, of the organization which has fourteen members.

NINETY YEARS AGO

Saline and Lafayette counties can at last begin to rejoice over the nearly and early prospects of the beginning of the completion of the Alton and Chicago railroad to Kansas City. When finished it will double the value of land and in addition will run through a territory not surpassed in all the United States for fertility of soil, depth of soil and general agricultural and pastoral advantages. The evidences of building the railroad are enough to convince the most skeptical. Somehow Sedalia must tap this road somewhere.

It Makes Sense . . . We Think

The news may shock both white segregationists and black separatists, but "Large Scale Integration" is the coming thing.

They may rest easy, however. Large Scale Integration is not a plan hatched at Great Society headquarters. It is, according to Aerospace Technology magazine in an issue devoted to a special report on it, "a new dimension in aerospace electronics."

It represents, evidently, some sort of breakthrough in the field of miniature electronic gizmos called Integrated Circuits. But only an electronics expert would know for sure. As one of them explains it:

"Large Scale Integration is the simultaneous realization of large area circuit chips and optimum component density for the express purpose of reducing costs by maximizing the amount of system connection done at the chip level."

On second thought, it does sound like something that only a government committee could come up with.

DAVID POLING

How the Clergy Lines Up For Presidential Hopefuls

By DAVID POLING

Politics and religion have never been successfully separated in American life. 1968 is no exception and it is high time to consider the political leanings—and support—of many of our national religious leaders.

We should first remember the intensity of the last campaign, which saw Lyndon Johnson claiming the overwhelming support of the Protestant clergy. Goldwater was completely out of touch with the concerns of the clergy and his handling of issues like Vietnam and civil rights brought despair, not delight, to many of America's 300,000 pastors. It should not seem so strange that the pulpit turned against Johnson when he escalated the conflict in Southeast Asia.

Remember also, that in 1960, such leading clergymen as Daniel Poling, Norman Peale and Billy Graham were strongly opposed to the candidacy of John F. Kennedy. They expressed the fear of many Protestant ministers that young Kennedy would be unable to handle the pressures of Vatican statements or phone calls from Cardinal Spellman.

However, it is my belief that the Protestant clergy elected Kennedy. By November, he had faced, head-on, the question of church-state relations, refuting traditional Catholic claims and enforcing historic concepts of separation. Countless ministers across the country have told me they switched to Kennedy in the closing days of that hot campaign.

Eugene McCarthy: Has the widest following of all the candidates in official church circles. Harvey Cox of Harvard and William Coffin of Yale and Robert McAfee Brown of Stanford, plus dozens of seminary faculties, councils of churches, executives and local pastors like the style and candor of McCarthy. His intellectual touch, nonboss attachments fit quite comfortably into the mood of the study and library.

Hubert Humphrey: Is considered the most friendly, understanding candidate by a large number of clergy. Many of them are willing to forgive his steady endorsement of administration policies on Vietnam, believing that he will stay close to the people and sensitive to the crises of campus and ghetto. Humphrey understands the Protestant community, is one of the people. He has easy rapport with ministers, who will always be more comfortable in the Humphrey family drugstore.

Richard Nixon: Will always have the solid support of people like Norman Vincent Peale, Billy Graham and Fulton J. Sheen. Some of the top Negro clergy are taking a look at the new Nixon, especially favorable to his substitution of black capitalism in the slums instead of white welfarism.

Ronald Reagan: Has strong support of National Association of Evangelicals, Hollywood Christian group. Billy Graham would be highly favorable to a Reagan presidency, as would Rev. Donald Moowmaw and Dale Evans.

Nelson Rockefeller: The Rockefeller family has probably done more for the Christian church in America than any other household. Millions of dollars have poured into churches, seminaries, colleges and aid to young theological students. Rockefeller is well-regarded by ministers in spite of his divorce and lottery push. He once said to a Protestant gathering: "I am one of you." There aren't many billionaires that can say that to struggling pastors—and have them believe it!

George Wallace: Has Billy Hargis, much to the relief of Nixon and Reagan.

Today's hand was played in a rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club. Barbara Kashmar, who sat South, was rather disappointed when she saw the dummy. It represented just about the worst possible raise, and she noted there were problems in each of the four suits.

There was an automatic correct spade play and Barbara made it by playing dummy's nine. When East won with the king, one hurdle appeared to have been taken care of. It looked as if she could finesse the spade jack later on and get rid of one of her minor suit losers on the ace.

East returned the three of hearts and a lot of players would have gone wrong at this point in the proceedings by playing the eight, but Barbara played the queen. West won with the king and led a trump back. Barbara won in her hand with an honor so as to retain the nine as an entry to dummy.

She cashed her ace and king of clubs next and led a spade to dummy's jack. If East had produced the queen, Barbara would have been down at least two tricks, but the jack held. Now Barbara was able to discard her three of clubs on the ace of spades. Then she led a club from dummy and ruffed high. This dropped East's queen. The eight of hearts was led next to put dummy in with the nine, and two of her three diamonds went on the last two clubs.

Sort of a humdrum hand, but look at all the chances Barbara had to go wrong. We will concede that the nine of spades at trick one was automatic and the play of heart honors in order to make the nine spot an eventual entry to dummy was also automatic, but we wonder if many players would have remembered to cash the ace and king of clubs before taking the spade finesse.

Drug Treatment of Gout Requires Continuance

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — I have taken colchicine, Benemid and cortisone for my gout. These drugs caused a stomach ulcer. Would allopurinol be better? Would it cause any bad side effects?

A — Although colchicine and probenecid (Benemid) may cause severe nausea, they do not cause peptic ulcers but the cortisone may do so. Colchicine must be given at the start of a course of allopurinol because early in the course of this treatment there is a tendency toward acute attacks of gout. This valuable drug should be taken under close medical supervision and should not be taken by anyone who has liver damage.

Q — I have had about 30 severe attacks of gout in the past 20 years. I have tried probenecid, Anturane and salicylates but usually have to discontinue them because of headaches, nausea and nervousness. I am now taking allopurinol, but after taking it for five days I have a severe attack of gout. Should I keep on taking it? Is there anything better than colchicine for this disease?

A — Since hereditary gout can be controlled with the judicious use of colchicine combined with other drugs but cannot be cured, you should continue with your treatment indefinitely. The dosage of these drugs required to prevent attacks is much less and better tolerated than that needed to relieve an acute attack.

Q — Are there different kinds of gangrene? Do the affected parts become black? Is there any cure for this disease?

A — Gangrene is not a disease but a term applied to tissue death. It may be a manifestation of different diseases. When, as is the case in some infections, the blood still reaches the dead or dying tissues the condition is called moist gangrene. But when, as is the case with severe frostbite or tissue death due to obstruction in an artery, no blood can reach the tissues we have mummification or dry gangrene.

This is a pathological classification. Classification by cause would include such types as diabetic gangrene and gas gangrene, a disease caused by the gas bacillus.

In mummification, the dead tissue becomes coal black. Efforts can be made to prevent the various causes of gangrene, but once a tissue is dead there is no remedy.

Giant Strides . . . Backwards

Its subject matter may be the dead and dusty but, as a field of research, archeology is among the most lively and productive on the scene today.

The diggers, thanks in large part to radioactive carbon dating and other boosts from modern technology, keep pushing back the beginning and adding new chapters to man's cultural story.

Recent discoveries in the United States and Mexico put man in the Americas a good many years earlier than had long been thought. And on the other side of the world, there are indications that some men were giving some thought to higher things in life, such as art, as much as 22,000 years ago—the tentative dating of a limestone pebble unearthed in Afghanistan.

Human features are carved on the 2½ x 1¼-inch pebble. Archeologists call it a sculpture, the oldest by far ever unearthed.

Ironically, increasing knowledge of man's lengthy past comes at a time when he has it in his power to blow his future—and when there is some fear that he might.

Forbidden-Fruit Moral

Dirty book publishers in Denmark are longing for the good old days—when it was against the law to sell pornography.

In an experiment that only the adventurous Scandinavians would dare try, Denmark recently abolished all censorship of the printed word. As expected, the nation's presses groaned mightily and poured forth a torrent of pure pornography.

But as was not expected, the bottom soon dropped out of the market. (Neither has there been any noticeable increase in sex-motivated crimes.) Now that the stuff is freely available, it simply is not avidly sought after.

It is, of course, the old story of the forbidden fruit that loses its appeal once it is no longer forbidden.

Urban Areas Demanding Stronger Control Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — A deluge of letters, telegrams and telephone calls urging stronger federal gun-control laws has descended on Congress since the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The tide of messages is heaviest from urban areas, according to an Associated Press survey of 90 Congress members from representative districts. But mail from rural areas, especially in the Ea t and Midwest, is also registering a shift in favor of stronger gun curbs.

The rural South and Southwest are generating more demands for firearms control, as is the hunting country of the Rocky Mountain states.

Congress has passed legislation curbing the mail-order sale of handguns. President Johnson, who wants the ban extended to rifles and shotguns, has not signed it.

Varying bills for stronger gun legislation have been proposed since the assassination. They include Johnson's request for extension of the mail-order curb to rifles and shotguns and compulsory registration and licensing of all firearms.

Sen. Harris A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., has received over 6,000 letters since Monday favoring tougher gun measures. Half enclose a newspaper advertisement placed by a Newark jeweler and addressed to Williams.

"We beg you to pass strong interstate gun laws now," the ad says.

Several congressional aides sounded cautionary notes on the flood of gun control mail.

"The question in my mind is how long this is going to keep up and will people forget as soon as the Kennedy assassination is out of the headlines," said one.

"Just wait for the inflow of mail opposed to gun laws once the sportsmen's and hunters' groups have a chance to meet," said another.

The mail from some rural areas indicates a turnabout from strong opposition to gun curbs to at least mild approval.

Reps. Robert T. Stafford, R-Vt., and William D. Hathway, D-Maine, say the shift is marked in northern New England.

Rep. Watkins M. Abbitt, D-Va., and W. S. Stuckey, D-Ga., say letters on gun control from their rural constituents have shifted from total opposition too about 50 per cent approval.

The response from rural areas of South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas has been minimal congressmen say.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., quoted a letter from Marengo, Ind., as an example of the 1,000 he has received. "Every type of firearm should be registered as are automobiles. There should be severe penalties for those who don't comply."

Gun-control sentiment in the West also shows signs of shifting.

New Mexico and Nevada members of Congress report a surprisingly even split on the issue among letter writers.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., says the 400 letters on the subject he has received favor firearm controls by about two or three to one.

Campaign Special: How I Roast The Candidates

By JOEY ADAMS

A Physician Tells: How to Rate Your Doctor's Office Care

PLUS: RONALD REAGAN on the Vice Presidency ... ARNOLD PALMER on fans who boo his opponents... and DEAN MARTIN on his great love

Ask Them Yourself

FOR GOV. RONALD REAGAN

If the GOP nominates Nelson Rockefeller to run for President, would you accept the Vice-Presidential nomination?—Betsy Johnston, Stamford, Conn.

● I have been asked that question often recently. All I can say is that I will be California's favorite-son candidate for President at the convention. That way, I can help maintain party unity and assure California, as the largest state, a major voice in selecting the 1968 Republican Presidential candidate.

FOR ARNOLD PALMER

Does it bother you when your gallery cheers for you and boos your opponents?—Douglas Miller, Marysville, Mich.

● I appreciate the support of the fans who come out to the tournaments and root for me. I know it helps me play better. But I don't like it when they root against another golfer. That shows very poor sportsmanship.

FOR JACKIE GLEASON

How and when did you first meet Art Carney?—Mary DeRose, Lansing, Mich.

● About 20 years ago, I was starting out in show business and Art, a veteran radio performer, came into a Dumont network studio to work in comedy skits with me.

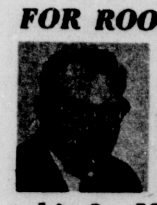
FOR FRED MacKENZIE,

author of "Men of Bastogne"

After the World War II siege of Bastogne was broken, were the troops who fought there withdrawn from action?—R. L., Dothan, Ala.

● No. The 101st Airborne Division and other units involved in the siege engaged in even bloodier fighting afterward.

FOR ROONE ARLEDGE,



President, ABC-tv sports

Do the stars on "American Sportsman" receive any salary? Are they allowed to keep their trophies?—Mrs. Kenneth Bell, Muncie, Ind.

● Our celebrities are not on salary but are allowed to keep their trophies.

FOR DR. MAURICE POSTER,

American Optometric Association

Do you recommend contact lenses for persons who need bifocals?—Mrs. R. G. Maier, Aberdeen, S.D.

● Bifocal contact lenses still may be considered partly in the experimental phase. Many varying designs have been produced and each has certain benefits, but there are individual characteristics which may or may not indicate the use of bifocal contact lenses. I can only suggest that anyone considering bifocal contact lenses should consult an eye specialist.

FOR DEAN MARTIN

Is it true that during your show rehearsals and intermissions you eat lots of peanut butter and crackers?—Mrs. Bea Kuhn, Altoona, Pa.

● It depends on who gets to the peanut butter and crackers first—my friends or me. But, yes, I do eat a lot of them. Once when I was almost late for a number, somebody said, "Dean must be eating peanut butter again—he's probably stuck to the roof of his dressing room."

FOR MR. BLACKWELL

As a man as well as a fashion designer, what do you think of midi-skirts? —E. T., Salem, Ore.

● Midi-skirts are romantic, feminine, and fun. They are meant to be only an addition to the wardrobe and not a total way of life. Designed properly and worn preferably for dinner and dancing, they are both glamorous and exciting.

FOR SYLVIA PORTER, financial writer

How did you get started in your career?—T. F. Gibbons, Idaho Falls, Idaho

● At the time of the market crash of 1929, I was the daughter of a successful businesswoman who lost her money in the Depression. I was attending New York's Hunter College and immediately switched my major from English to economics. After graduating, I tried to land a job as a financial writer, but there was no demand for a woman in that field. Eventually, however, the New York Post hired me.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Housewives' New Pet Dick Cavett, who has been making news with a bold morning version of the "Tonight" show, won an unsolicited testimonial from Jack Paar, who popularized these tv-conversation pieces: "His show is the closest thing to what I always wanted to do." Like Paar, Cavett is just what you see on the tv screen. Unlike him, Cavett keeps the family out of it. When pressed, he admits to being wed to actress Carrie Nye. "She was the seventh girl, the nasty one, in 'The Group.' " Any children? "No," he says, "but we're not against them."

Dick Cavett

Crime Fighter In his comic-strip adventures, Dick Tracy sometimes fights arch-criminals with a small "laser camera" that helps him to "make an arrest and supply the witness at the same time." Now science has come up with a real-life version, a five-pound, battery-operated tv camera that flesh-and-blood detectives can use to record a crime for posterity—and the courtroom. The system is also handy for coaches, educators, repairmen, and anyone else who needs an on-the-spot record and fast playback of what's happening.

The Quiet Life Was Hamlet being nasty when he told Ophelia, "Get thee to a nunnery?" Or was he practicing medicine without a license? After much research, doctors now say that a nun in a cloistered U.S. convent lives four years longer and is much healthier than the average American woman. Doctors are hoping to study nuns further to see what health lessons the rest of us can learn from them.

Have a Ball Eddie Johnson, son of baseball immortal Walter "Big Train" Johnson, has a unique collection of autographed baseballs—they're signed by a number of former U.S. Presidents, including Teddy Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, and William Howard Taft. Realizing the collection's historic value, Eddie is donating the baseballs to the Cooperstown, N.Y., Hall of Fame. He still has a couple of horsehides autographed by former major league greats, but explains, "Anything less than a Babe Ruth, we used to bat around the yard."

Better Late Than Never Remember the Edsel, the car that was Detroit's version of the New York Mets? While gag-writers grew rich writing Edsel jokes, Ford reputedly lost $250 million on it. But 10 years later the Edsel is a winner —at last. It has become a chi-chi collector's item. Its drivers search each other out, exchange letters, and form exclusive clubs. Assuming you could find an owner who'd sell, the current price for an Edsel in mint condition is in the limousine range of $5,000.

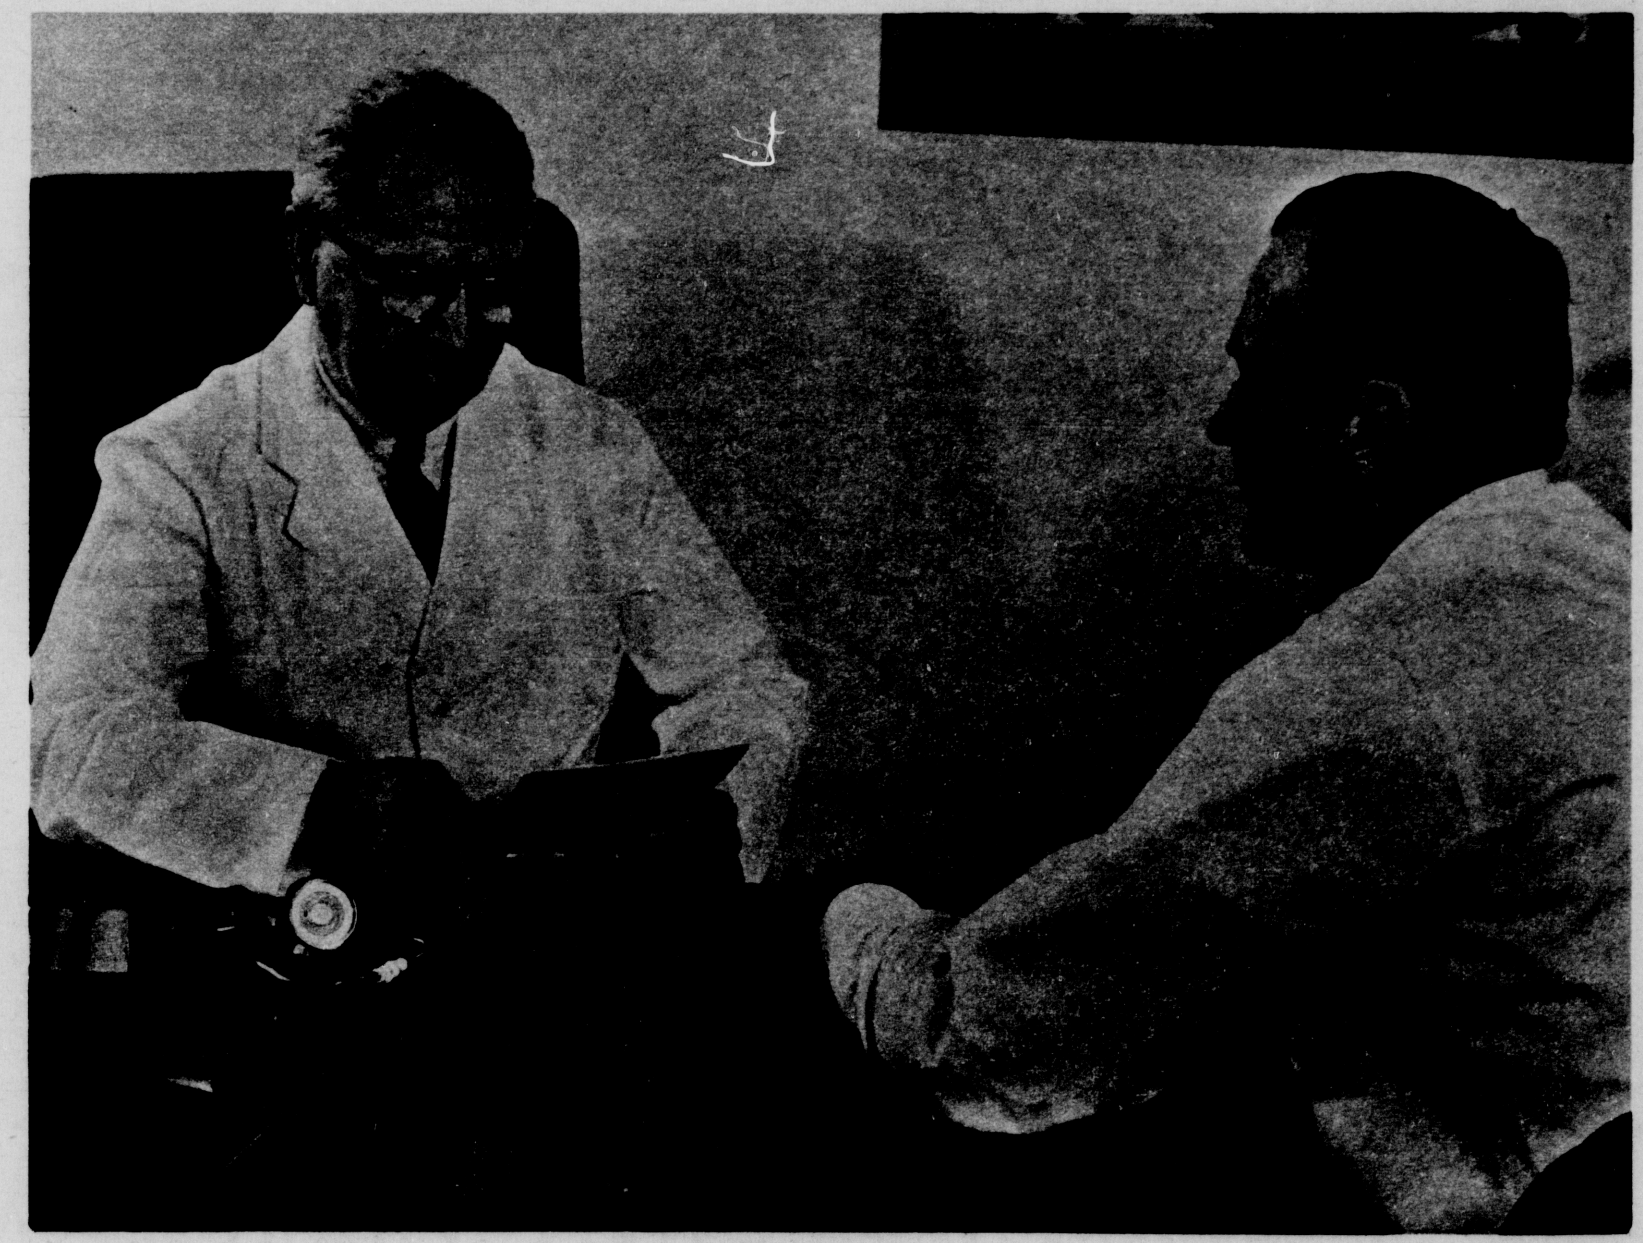
A PHYSICIAN TELLS:

How to Rate Your Doctor's

With professional evaluation still a long way off, here's a set of guidelines



MOST OF THE 25 million or so patients who will be hospitalized in the U.S. in any given year have their health and welfare protected in ways largely invisible to them.

They simply take it for granted that these safeguards exist. And exist they do; hospitals are under rigid supervision, both by the medical profession itself and the hospital commissions.

But what of the millions of other persons who are treated in that last outpost of total medical autonomy—the doctor's private office? Here the individual practitioner sets his own standards; no one looks over his shoulder or evaluates his performance. This is the crux of a growing medical controversy—what are your safeguards here?

Predictably, the quality of medicine tends to vary enormously from one office to another. And the average patient has no way of judging what kind of medical care he is getting except by using the unreliable guideposts of his own instincts and knowledge, the doctor's reputation, and the effect on his health.

Soon, however, things may be different. The Federal government, under Medicare and Medicaid, is paying the office-care and out-of-hospital bills for millions of people. Even private insurers are offering programs that will cover office care. All of them are beginning to express interest in what they are getting for their money.

Forward-looking medical men have come to an irrevocable conclusion on evaluation of office care: we'd better do it ourselves before they do it for us. But there are still problems.

For one thing, many doctors say it is an impossible task. Medicine is an art, not an exact science. Many unmeasurables and imponderables go into a doctor's diagnosis and program of treatment that do not lend themselves to precise scientific measurements and, in particular, to comparison with other patients and other doctors.

There is some truth to this objection. It is certainly unrealistic to conclude that rules regulating hospital practice would also apply to office practice.

It's a pretty simple matter, for example, to review an appendectomy done at a hospital and decide whether good judgment was exercised in deciding to take the appendix out. Appendicitis displays relatively standard symptoms and physical findings. The tissue is examined by the pathologist and adjudged diseased or not, and the postoperative course is usually uncomplicated, lasting a week or less. A hospital record which differs from this theoretical standard case is immediately apparent upon professional examination.

The average office case, on the other hand, is usually very different. It is far more likely to be psychosomatic ("nerves") in whole or in part —with a bewildering variety of symptoms and sometimes physical findings which defy easy sorting out or evaluation. Furthermore, many of them are "incurable" in the strict sense of the word. The anxieties and tensions which bring many people to the office may go on for long periods of time despite the best efforts of the best doctors to cure them.

Other doctors object to the notion of evaluating office medical care on the grounds that it constitutes an invasion of privacy. They insist that what goes on between the patient and the doctor is privileged and confidential. "These people bare their souls to us sometimes," said one veteran practitioner. "If they ever got the idea that some of the information they confide might get to somebody else, they'd tell us nothing —and that would be very bad medicine for them, let me assure you."

Yet hospital records, which often contain much confidential information, are carefully scrutinized without obvious damage to the physician-patient relationship.

Then, too, some doctors feel that

Office Care

By WALTER E. O'DONNELL, M.D.

you can use to judge your doctor's performance

regulation of office practice is unnecessary since the really sick people wind up in the hospital, where strict safeguards are already in effect.

Proponents of the need for evaluating the quality of medical care in the office concede the complexity and difficulty—and in some areas the impossibility—of their task. They insist, nevertheless, that some areas can and ought to be measured.

Does the doctor take an adequate history? Does he examine the patient thoroughly and properly? Are the laboratory and X-ray studies which he orders complete and appropriate? How do his standards and results compare with those of his colleagues? And so on.

This would require an on-the-spot evaluation by a trained inspector who would sample the patient records in the doctor's files and render an opinion as to just how good they were. Some authorities insist that the picture would be incomplete without direct observation of the physician as he listens to a patient's symptoms, examines him, and recommends diagnostic tests or treatment.

The first type of evaluation could probably be carried out by a medically trained non-physician, providing it gave due regard to the problems of everyday office practice. The second kind of inspection would obviously require the services of a physician, and this fact in itself would seem to rule out this approach. Beyond that, the seeming intrusion of a third party into the doctor's traditionally private consulting and examining rooms could be expected to meet with objections from doctor and patient alike.

The professional evaluation and grading of office medical care is still some time off. Inevitably, however, it is coming. I believe reluctant doctors will have to accept it because third parties such as insurance companies and state and Federal agencies may refuse to pay fees to any physician who does not submit to evaluations.

Since payment from these sources is making up an ever-increasing percentage of his income, the doctor may find this pressure hard to resist. Then, too, his own specialty board or hospital may require periodic examination of his office practice. Lastly, patients will insist upon it.

It is significant that National Advisory Commission on Health Manpower, which reported to President Johnson in November, 1967, included "peer review and accountability" (evaluation of doctors by other doctors) as one of the Commission's major recommendations.

My hope is that when it comes it will be the result of the desire and efforts of doctors to do the job on their own rather than have unrealistic regulations forced upon them by those outside the profession.

But there are, of course, some standards by which the layman might judge his doctor now.

What medical school did he graduate from? When? Where did he perform his internship and residency training? (There are about 80 medical schools and several thousand hospitals in the U.S. certified for postgraduate training.) You can't be familiar with all of them, and you might not even recognize some of those that doctors rank as top-notch. A tactful inquiry of the doctor's aide should get you the information on the medical school.

In what hospitals does he have admitting privileges? Has he done any teaching or research? Is he specialty-board certified or eligible? (Again, the most obvious source of information is the doctor himself or his aide, but you may prefer to refer to the American Medical Association Directory or the Directory of Medical Specialists available in most large public libraries.)

What do his colleagues think of him as evidenced by their willingness to consult or have him take care of their family? (There is no higher compliment than being known as "a doctors' doctor.")

And finally, what do his patients think of him? Patients often take little notice of a doctor's scientific competence as long as he seems to get results. They tend to overemphasize his personality, an uncertain reflection of ability. But the reference books and diplomas tell you all about the doctor as a scientist and nothing about him as a person. You need to know about both to decide whether you want him to take care of you. So listen to what other patients say.

There are a few other guidelines an observant and inquiring patient can use. Does the doctor's office seem well organized, well staffed, and run on schedule? Does he advise a complete physical examination and then advise yearly checkups? (Watch out if he seems content to treat only your symptoms without trying to get at the source, or if he ignores modern concepts of preventive medicine through annual examinations.)

Does he keep adequate notes and records? Nobody can possibly carry all that information in his head, and some apparently minor detail of today may take on great significance sometime later.

Does he seem anxious to investigate and discuss even relatively minor complaints? Early diagnosis is quite often the key to successful treatment.

Does he seem to consider carefully each drug he gives you, or does he keep switching around?

Does he seem to depend too much on laboratory and X-ray tests and not enough on talking to and examining you? Even today the vast majority of all diagnoses are made, at least tentatively, on the basis of a good history and physical examination.

Does he make house calls? What are his arrangements for emergency coverage? You may be left high and dry in your hour of need unless you settle this before problems arise.

How does he react when you mention specialists or the advisability of getting another medical opinion on something?

These pointers are not infallible, but they certainly could help the average person in deciding whether he is getting the kind of medical care he wants, needs—and deserves. ◆

QUIPS AND QUOTES

The two lawyers were arguing heatedly in court. It had reached the name-calling stage.

"You, sir," the first lawyer yelled excitedly, "are an unmitigated nincompoop."

"And you," the second one shouted back, "are the biggest jackass in this courtroom."

The judge banged angrily with his gavel. "Order in the court!" he demanded. "You gentlemen seem to forget that I'm here!"

3. While chicken is browning, heat butter or margarine. Add the onion and mushrooms and cook until lightly browned, stirring occasionally. Add to the chicken with a mixture of the remaining ingredients.

4. Cover and simmer 25 to 30 min., or until chicken is tender, basting occasionally.

5. Arrange chicken on a heated platter; pour sauce over all. Serve with spaghetti and crusty Italian bread. 4 servings

Fried Chicken à la Southern Belle

1 broiler-fryer chicken, 2½ to 3 lbs. ready-to-cook weight, cut in serving-sized pieces
1½ cups cream
1½ teaspoons savory
1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
¾ cup regular all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons paprika
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Accent
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
Shortening and butter (equal parts)

1. Marinate chicken pieces 1 hr. in a mixture of the cream, savory, and the 1 teaspoon freshly ground pepper, turning once.

2. Remove chicken from cream. (The seasoned cream may be used for gravy.) Coat with a mixture of the flour and next four ingredients. Set aside on waxed paper for 30 min.

3. Meanwhile, fill a large, heavy skillet one-half full with the fat. Heat to 360°F.

4. Fry only a few chicken pieces at a time 10 to 13 min. (about 5 min. for wings), or until tender and browned; turn pieces several times during cooking. Drain over fat a few seconds; remove to absorbent paper-lined platter. Keep chicken warm while frying the remaining pieces. About 4 servings

Exclusive Interview:

Shirley MacLaine Talks About Men, Marriage, Morals

By DABBY OPPENHEIMER

SHIRLEY MACLAINE is one of the movies' biggest box-office attractions.

She is the star of the soon-to-be released "The Bliss of Mrs. Blossom" and is currently filming "Sweet Charity." Shirley is also one of the most controversial figures in Hollywood, a city noted for controversial figures. Here, in an exclusive interview with a friend and neighbor, she gives stimulating answers to a variety of provocative questions.

How do you think of yourself first? As an actress, wife, or mother?

As a woman first of all. In the final analysis, that's it. I am me, and I have to be true to myself.

Do you think American women are becoming more aggressive than men?

A whole new viewpoint is developing, one which says everyone can develop according to the equipment she possesses, not according to her sex. In an odd way, this makes her more feminine because the more consummate a woman feels, the more feminine she becomes.

Do you plan to raise your daughter Sachi as a free individual?

Yes. It seemed like her life belonged more to her than to me from the moment she was born. Of course, I made sure I was always there when she needed me, but mostly she'd rather be on her own.

I remember the time when I lived at the beach in Malibu and put Sachi outside in her playpen. I was busy, and the next time I looked out, it was raining. Sachi was throwing her arms around, gurgling, having a marvelous time. I was worried, but Sachi loved it and cried her eyes out when I brought her in.

With your husband Steve living in Japan, how is your marriage thriving?

Love makes a unit of the three of us, a unit that is much stronger because it consists of three independent people.

Was there ever a time when you had your doubts about your marriage?

Yes. There was a time in '57 when I didn't think it would work. I'd thought it all out and decided that I should break my contract and go to live in Japan with Steve. But he wouldn't let me. He pointed out that I'd worked since I was two years old; that work is my life. If I quit, I'd hate him, myself, everything!

How did you and Steve come to give your child such an unusual name?

Steve was brought up in Japan, where his father was in the diplomatic service. He was a paratrooper in World War II and was his unit's official interpreter when they landed in Tokyo. His outfit found a little girl named Sachiko (which means "happy child"), whose parents were killed in Hiroshima. Steve wanted to adopt her, but she died of radiation sickness before he could. So we named our daughter Stephanie Sachiko Parker and call her Sachi.

You were married on Sept. 17, 1954. The next morning you left to start work in your first film. Was Steve understanding of your independence even though you were only 19?

Steve was the wanderer then! I knew that. And he knew I had these drives to express myself through my work. He was not about to take this away from me.

In a marriage, do you feel there has to be a boss?

Sometime or other, there has to be one partner with the final answer, no matter how progressive you are. One Christmas Steve and I almost argued about when to give Sachi her gifts. I wanted her to nap first, but Steve was impatient to give out the gifts. I gave in because I felt somebody had to be the boss, namely Steve.

Is it true that you're thinking of going into politics?

Ha! Can't you just see me behind a desk? I am not interested in politics as a job, but I do feel it is important for actors to commit themselves.

Are you a religious person?

I believe God is in people. I believe love is God. The important thing to me is to believe in people.

Do you have a goal in life?

I guess to make tomorrow a little better than today. This is a kind of recent stage; it comes with a feeling of success. I want to contribute something to make the world a better place to live in.

How do you feel about the sudden and surprising success of your actor brother, Warren Beatty, as a movie producer?

How about that! Frankly, I am not all that happy with the way his picture made violence and the characters—who were criminals in real life—almost likeable.

What do you think of nudity and sex in films today?

Well, I certainly don't believe in censorship, if that's what you mean. I think movies are better than ever today because they are true to life. If nudity is an intrinsic part of the story and done with taste, then I say okay. As long as the actress doesn't catch cold, that is.

What do you think of morality in general today?

There's a whole new morality developing these days. And who's to say what is right and what is wrong really? The more I travel, the more I realize that traditional habits are silly. I hope I am raising Sachi to have her own sense of morality, but whenever I talk to her about anything, I always preface it with, "This is just my opinion." I just hope Sachi will have a reverence for life. ◆

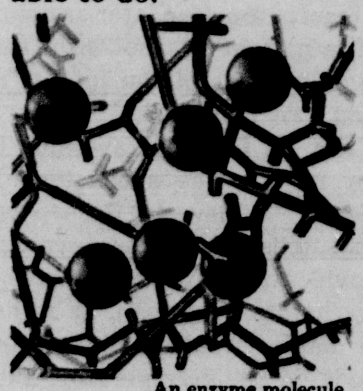
Colgate announces the enzyme active pre-soak

AXION

Soaks out stains and dirt that bleaches can't bleach out, detergents can't wash out!

New Axion upsets every idea you ever had about your wash

Axion is an incredible new discovery. It is entirely different from any detergent. It is entirely different from any bleach. It is an enzyme active pre-soak that cleans away stains as no other kind of washing product has ever been able to do.



An enzyme molecule

Works on the stain—not on the fabric.

Axion, with active enzymes, is the latest result of Colgate research. Axion's active enzymes biologically break down the molecular structure of the most stubborn stains . . . loosen stains so they wash away easily during the regular wash cycle.

Yet Axion won't harm synthetic fabrics or colors. So you can safely use Axion where you could never use chlorine bleach. Axion's enzyme formula was developed to concentrate on stains and dirt . . . for cleaning, whitening, and brightening far beyond detergents or bleach.

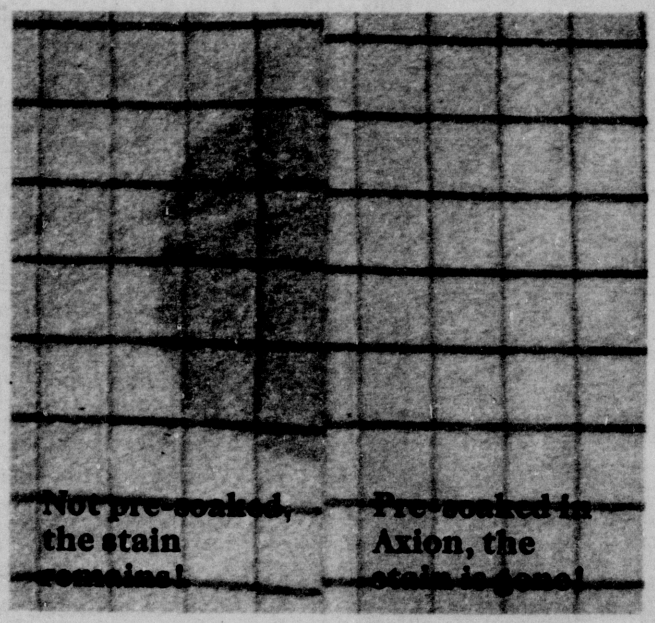
Axion attacks stain after stain

Blood • Gravy • Sauces • Chocolate • Fruit Stains • Dirt on White Socks • Grass • Yellowing on Pillowcases • Baby Foods • Perspiration Stains • Diaper Stains • Grime on Shirt Collars and Cuffs • and many more.

Axion saves you money, too. It helps keep laundry new . . . doesn't damage fabrics the way harsh bleaches can. That tablecloth you thought was ruined can be restored to "special company" status. And dozens of other items will last longer and look better.

See the difference

Both towels washed in detergent and bleach



See how Axion performs. Both of these towels had set beef liver stains. The one on the right was pre-soaked in Axion. Then they both were machine-washed with regular detergent and bleach. The towel that was only washed in bleach and detergent is still badly stained. The towel pre-soaked in Axion—stain free, clean!

Works on your whole wash

You will see a striking difference in your entire wash the first time you pre-soak with Axion. Your whites will be noticeably brighter and cleaner. And pleasantly fresh-smelling. Perspiration stains will be gone. Yellowed sheets and soiled pillowcases will be white again. Those grimy children's white socks, your husband's shirt collars and cuffs—so clean you'll find it hard to believe. And, just by following package instructions you can use Axion effectively on synthetic fabrics and colors you wouldn't dare bleach. In fact, once you start using Axion, you'll find yourself pre-soaking everything you wash, everytime you wash!

SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY:

A Sure-Fire Way to Break Your Bad Habits

DO YOU want to stop smoking? Quit compulsive gambling? Eliminate overeating?

Science now has come up with a fascinating formula to help you break your bad habits. Called "aversion therapy," its basic principle is this: if you have an unpleasant experience while doing something, you will stop wanting to do it.

Recent studies at the University of California prove that aversion therapy really works—if administered under professional supervision. In the experiments, subjects carried a small battery-powered device in their pockets and whenever they felt the urge to indulge in an undesirable habit, they gave the device a squeeze. Immediately a mild-to-moderate shock was administered.

This method of "punishing" the habit was highly successful in the case of nail-biters, and with smokers, a vastly tougher breed, the technique recorded a 50-percent success rate.

Dr. Malcolm Kushner of the Institute for Research in Clinical Psychology cites an interesting case history involving aversion therapy. A 17-year-old girl had been afflicted with chronic fits of sneezing. She underwent a complete series of examinations, tried a variety of medications, and even resorted to hypnosis and sleep therapy—all to no avail.

Doctor Kushner's treatment involved placing a microphone around the girl's neck, connected to an amplifier and a shock source. Electrodes were taped to her arm, and every time she sneezed, the amplified sound triggered a mild shock. After several treatments, the sneeze frequency diminished gradually and finally stopped.

While not all cases are as serious as this, Doctor Kushner feels that aversion therapy is the answer to equally persistent bad habits, such as nail biting, smoking, and overeating.

The technique was equally valuable in curing a compulsive gambler. Two British psychiatrists, Dr. J. C. Barker and Dr. Mabel Miller, were called in to help a man who was losing his weeky earnings. The two doctors made films of him at a gambling establishment and at home. Seating him in a dark room, the films were shown to him and each time the gambling-hall film was run, he was given mild shocks. The home-life film was accompanied by the soothing voice of his wife.

Doctor Barker later announced, "The patient has not been near a gambling establishment in more than two months."

Not all forms of aversion therapy require the shock technique, though. A Beverly Hills psychiatrist tells of a case involving a movie star with compulsive eating habits. The man, as a matter of habit, would make midnight raids on the refrigerator, and his wife sought professional help.

The doctor recommended that she get a picture of a grossly fat man, enlarge it to life-size, and superimpose the head of her husband on it. She stood the figure in front of the refrigerator each night and before long her husband's midnight forays ceased.

Authorities feel that aversion therapy may play its most important role in coping with surface habits and should not be used in cases where the habit is caused by a deep-seated neurosis.

In any case, professional recommendation and approval should be sought before applying aversion therapy because, as with any form of therapy, when and how it should be used is best left to the judgment of a trained professional.

Americans work harder than any other people on earth to make adequate financial provision for their families after they are gone—BUT much of their hard-earned money is wasted, siphoned off by a scandalous probate system before it ever reaches their loved ones

NORMAN F. DACEY

Why Haven't You and Your Family Been Told These Facts?

- On average, it takes one to five years to close out an estate. During that time your spouse can draw a pitifully-small "widow's allowance" but your children can't draw a cent.
- It costs three to ten times as much proportionately to settle a poor man's estate as that of a millionaire.
- Under the existing probate system, complete strangers may share your estate with your family.

But, in the next 60 seconds I will tell you of an astonishingly simple way to transfer absolutely everything you now own to your loved ones after your death without delay, without red tape and without the excessive probate costs which your estate may otherwise be called upon to bear.

If you don't take the steps I suggest, my advice to you is "Don't die," because complications will start the moment you do. Your estate will come under the jurisdiction of a special court. Sometimes called the "orphans," "chancery" or "surrogate" court, its most common name is "probate" court. If you've left no will, it will dictate one for you in accordance with your state's law which won't necessarily read as you would wish. Now your children can start their long one-to-five-year wait to get what is left of their inheritance after the appraiser fees, executor or administrator fees and probate court costs are deducted.

THE UGLY SIDE OF PROBATE

Senator Robert F. Kennedy recently charged that courts handling probate are "shot through with scandal, scandal that has been documented over the years."

Fiorello LaGuardia called the probate system "the most expensive undertaking establishment in the world." The New York Herald-Tribune editorially denounced those "clubhouse lawyers" who "profit to the extent of one million dollars annually in fees, many taken, at a large percentage, from small guardianships where every dollar is needed." The Bridgeport Post called the probate system a "gravy train." An article in the Journal of the American Bar Association called the Connecticut probate system "one of the most viciously corrupt."

Probate judges on average are the highest paid judges in America. Many of them work on percentage and may earn more than the governors of their states. The income of one judge was 20% higher than that of the Chief Justice in Washington.

The clerk of a Chicago probate court appointed 691 "special guardians" in a nine-month period. One of his friends got 76 guardianships—an average of two a week. A probate judge has reported that 90% of the appraisers appointed by a probate court perform no service whatever for the fee they receive. Many conscientious members of the bar are worried about the corruption built into our probate system but most lack the courage to speak out.

It is up to you to do something to help yourself. Sooner or later some of your own family's money will be involved. Don't wait and let your family and your children face this problem. Learn now how to avoid the probate system.

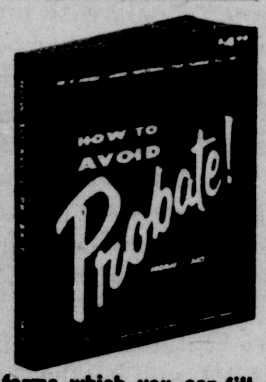
THE MAGIC KEY TO AVOID PROBATE

How can you give your loved ones the very maximum estate in the very minimum time after you have gone? By avoiding probate. Yes, virtually everything you now own can be quickly and easily transferred to your heirs after your death—and exactly as you specify, without any red tape, without publicity, without strangers meddling in your affairs and draining off the financial security you worked so hard to build for your family.

You can achieve all this very simply by a method which few laymen know about called an "inter vivos" or "living" trust. Indeed, only a small proportion of lawyers fully understand its use—the American Bar Association has just issued a training film to be shown to local bar associations to educate them on its advantages.

CLEARED!

The Book The Lawyers Tried to Ban . . . until the Lawyers' New York State suit was THROWN OUT by New York's highest court . . . The book so extraordinary Norman F. Dacey insists it be printed not on regular book paper but highest quality bond paper . . . Because it contains important legal forms which you can fill in, use and which last over 100 years.



It's amazingly simple: Let's assume that you own a piece of real estate which you wish to leave to your wife at your death. In a simple "declaration of trust" you say in part: "I declare that I am holding this property in trust for my wife. Upon my death my successor trustee is to turn the property over to the beneficiary and terminate this trust. I hereby appoint as successor trustee the beneficiary hereunder." Upon your death, your wife, acting in her capacity as successor trustee, simply turns the property over to herself as beneficiary. She is then immediately the complete and absolute owner of the property. That's all there is to it—no executor's fees, no appraiser's fees, no probate court cost. No one-to-five-year wait. No piece in the paper telling all your business.

VITAL IF YOU OWN A SMALL BUSINESS

Passing on a small business, incorporated or unincorporated, to relatives or employees is extremely important. If necessary, your business can be quickly sold by the beneficiary-trustee if that is your and their wish. Otherwise, it could be tied up in probate court for years. A distress sale under probate procedures may produce little or nothing . . . may even create obligations. With an "inter vivos" trust, your successor trustee can quietly, privately and immediately investigate possible buyers . . . then take his time to make the deal that will give your family the very maximum, with no undesirable publicity to harm the sale.

WHY THIS BOOK BECAME AMERICA'S NO. 1 BEST SELLER

I wrote this book to tell a few friends and clients how to avoid probate. They told their friends . . . and it zoomed to the top of the best-seller list because Americans everywhere discovered that it frees them from the bondage of the iniquitous probate system.

In it you will find an explanation of why it is vitally important to you and your family that you avoid probate. Next, you'll find the actual trust instruments needed to exempt your home or other real estate, your savings or checking account, your stocks, your mutual fund shares, your small unincorporated business, your close corporation . . . even your personal effects such as jewelry, antiques, paintings, etc.

With each instrument are instructions that even a school child can understand, and a picture of how the instrument should look when it is completed. All of the instruments are specially perforated for easy removal from the book and actual use.

In addition, you'll find precise advice on a wide range of family financial planning decisions which you are called upon to make on matters of life insurance, taxes, investments and the like . . . the very things you and I would talk about if we sat down in your own home to discuss your financial estate problems.

LOADED WITH TAX-SAVING IDEAS, TOO

I'll show you a special way to give support to an elderly relative or to a growing child. I'll show you how you and the beneficiary can gain valuable tax benefits. I'll show you how to make gifts to charity to take effect at your death—but give you important tax benefits this year. I'll even tell you exactly what you do if you change your mind about any of the trust arrangements or want to change a beneficiary . . . and provide necessary forms.

WHAT DOES ALL THIS MEAN?

It means that you're going to learn how to make the money you earn safer and more productive, you're going to pass it on to your family at your death with a minimum of wear and tear from taxes — and you're going to avoid completely the up-to-10% or 20% cost, the one-to-five year delay and the unwelcome publicity which will attract the attention of unscrupulous persons to your heirs. And you're going to keep the sticky fingers of any probate racketeers out of your family's affairs.

To my knowledge, there's never been a book like this before. It is truly a "do-it-yourself kit" which will enable any literate American to administer his own estate. If you came by your money easily and you don't much care who gets it when you're gone, the book isn't for you. But if you're a hard-working American and you want to decide for yourself, with a conscientious lawyer if you like, who is to get your estate when you're gone, and if you have no intention of bequeathing a chunk of it to the local probate court, this book was written for you.

1968 CAMPAIGN SPECIAL:

How I Roast the Politicians

By JOEY ADAMS

Author of "Cindy and I," "L.B.J.'s Texas Laffs," and "The Joey Adams Encyclopedia of Humor"

"NELSON ROCKEFELLER said he wouldn't be drafted," I said about the New York governor, who was sitting next to me on the dais. "He meant into the Army."

The occasion was the recent Governor's dinner for scholastic achievement. It was the day Nelson Rockefeller announced his candidacy. The Governor loves to be ribbed and often asks to be publicly roasted.

"I know why he decided to go for the Presidency," I continued. "His brother Winthrop wants to be Attorney General. I can't understand why he wants the job, though: it means he'll have to move into a smaller house."

In this era of masochistic comedy, our most famous politicians have accepted testimonials, only to be ribbed and roasted by comedians like me. And they are sworn to take it. It's laugh and the world laughs with you; cry and you're a poor politician.

Mayor John Lindsay of New York is the easiest target of all because he likes to be a comedian himself. At a recent dinner I said, "You were very funny, John. Not tonight—at City Hall.

"Lindsay," I said with my arm around the Mayor, "is still a noncandidate for national office. Why? He'd rather play the Latin Quarter than Washington."

A sense of humor is what makes you laugh at something which would make you mad if it happened to you. But given the choice, politicians would rather be insulted than ignored. And anyway, there is nothing they can do about it.

"Robert F. Kennedy does not want to be President," I said to the 1,000 men who had come to honor the Senator at a dinner. "He wants to be king." Of course, Bobby's laugh was the loudest and the longest.

Kennedy's pals told me that I could go the limit. R.F.K. insisted that he be treated like any other fall guy. So I did.

"Bobby wants to be President—and he does have lots of experience. His first job out of school was counselor at camp, his second job was Attorney General. Bobby now has a vigorous image for the youth of America. He should have: he's produced a good many of them.

"Richard Nixon," I suggested to a mixed group of Republicans and Democrats, "couldn't win if he ran unopposed."

"Nixon," I said lovingly, "is a nice man. My Uncle Morris is also a nice man. My uncle shouldn't be President and neither should Nixon."

Joey chats with a favorite target—L.B.J.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy is a new target for the sharpshooters. "He is familiar with all the questions of the day," I said recently. "He just doesn't know the answers."

"I like the straightforward way he dodges all the issues. One thing about this Presidential hopeful, when he makes up his mind, he's full of indecision."

Of course, I always smile lovingly at a candidate when I insult him. But I always finish with a compliment: "I predict that Senator McCarthy will be our next President—but I also predicted that Zsa Zsa Gabor would join the Peace Corps.

"When you talk about Gov. Ronald Reagan running for President," I said at a dinner the other day, "you should mention experience, knowledge, and ability—because those are three things he hasn't got.

"I hope he wins," I said affectionately, "and stays in politics. Then I won't have to watch him in movies any more."

If you get a reputation as a "big needle," sometimes politicians' campaign managers suggest punchlines. Even the candidates themselves have suggested some.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is a marathon talker. One of his aides suggested a line which I used when I followed one of his one-man debates: "I finally found out why talk is cheap—there's more supply than demand. I think H.H.H. is the greatest. And that's his opinion, too."

L.B.J., of course, is everyone's favorite target. "It's no surprise," I said, "that his popularity's increased—even your mother-in-law is popular when she says she's leaving."

In the coming months these candidates are sure to say or do things that will provide roastmasters like myself with additional ammunition. And there's one thing we can depend upon. Republicans or Democrats, they will be the ones who will laugh first and loudest because they all follow the political axiom that goes: "He who laughs last is a loser." ◆

DEAR POLLY—Save carpet scraps and use to cover a brick. This will make a good door stop that will match the floor covering and be very inconspicuous.—MRS. F. C. S.

DEAR POLLY—If you wear two pairs of eye glasses, one for closeup and one for distance, and have trouble knowing which pair is which put a bit of nail polish on the bridge of one pair. All you have to do is to remember which has the polish on it.—A. M.

DEAR POLLY—When using a double edged razor blade to rip seams or scrape paint, tear off the long cardboard end of a match book case and insert the blade between the folds where the matches were. This saves cut fingers and gives better grip on the blade.—SHERRY

DEAR POLLY—Attach a small bell to your car and house keys. If they are accidentally dropped the jingle of the bell alerts you. It also aids in locating them when they fall in the snow or grass.—LUCILLE

DEAR POLLY—When the kids have a hankering to paint and the paint brushes cannot be found, cotton swabs will do the trick.—DEBBIE

DEAR POLLY—After thoroughly cleaning a push-button top liquid detergent bottle I fill it with cooking oil. Just pull up the top and squeeze out as much oil as is needed. This sure beats pouring from a bottle or can.—MRS. R. F.

DEAR POLLY—During stormy weather when the children are running in and out, I keep a coat hanger with several clothespins handy to hang wet gloves and caps upon. The hanger can hang on the shower rod while the things are drying.—MRS. J. W. D.

DEAR POLLY—Mothers of small babies often misplace those little feeding spoons. I find that inexpensive round plastic measuring spoons do a wonderful job of feeding baby safely and easily. If the spoon is slightly tilted while in the baby's mouth, all of the food is taken.—ANN

DEAR POLLY—I read in your column about making a nylon net bag to hold dark socks while in the wash. Today was wash day and I had not had time to make such a bag so I put the dark socks in an old nylon stocking, tied the end and threw it in. Result—no lint. Now I will no longer have to wash these socks separately.—MRS. S. S.
